FIVE BIG FACTS IN RICHESON MURDER TRIAL

Third, Judge Sanderson, district attorney in the famous Tucker trial, will preside.

Fourth, The defense gets important data from the District Attorney.

PAID FOR VOTE, SAYS MURPHY CASE WITNESS

NEW BEDFORD, Dec. 15.—At the continued hearing to-day in the case of John E. Murphy, the Republican leader, charged with buying the vote of Patrick J. Foye at State election for $3, Foye, the second witness for the prosecution, testified that John E. Murphy not only paid him $3 the day after State election for voting for Frothingham and Luce, but also paid him $3 previously for voting for Luce at the primaries.

The statement that Murphy bought Foye's primary vote caused a sensation. This was increased when Foye, in answer to questioning by David I. Walsh, attorney for the prosecution, stated under oath that Murphy came to him on State election day and promised him $3 to vote the Frothingham and Luce ticket.

Foye testified that he did vote for Frothingham and Luce, and that the next day he went to the headquarters of the Republican City Committee and received $3 from Murphy.

Defence Gets Delay.

There was a rumor that Foye would not appear in court and that the prosecution would be minus its star witness. But Foye appeared when the Third District Court was opened before Judge Frank M. Milliken.

After an hour's recess, granted to the defence for the arrival of two witnesses, court resumed at 10:15 o'clock. John B. Lowney, counsel for the defence, had associated with him his partner, John Walsh. This made an attorney named Walsh on either side, John for the defence and David I. for the prosecution.

As soon as the case was resumed John Walsh asked Judge Milliken to quash the second count in the warrant, which alleges that Murphy gave Foye $3 the day after election "to influence the vote of said Foye."

John Walsh raised the point that one cannot influence a man's vote after election, saying:

"You can't influence a man's vote after he has voted. Therefore, as the complaint alleges the money was paid the day after election, how could this vote have been influenced? The deed was consummated, if at all, on November 7 (State election day). There could positively be no influence exerted on November 8."

David I. Walsh Wins.

David I. Walsh opposed, saying:

"The exact language of the statute has been followed in drawing the complaint. The transaction of vote-buying alleged included: First, the promise on election day to pay Foye $3 for his vote. By this promise Foye was influenced. He voted for Frothingham and Luce and next day went to the Republican headquarters and collected his money."

David I. Walsh argued further that the transaction was one whole proceeding, beginning with the promises and ending with Foye's acceptance of the money.

Judge Milliken overruled John Walsh's motion to quash the second count in the complaint.

Then the prosecution put on its case. City Clerk Walter H. D. Remongton testified Patrick J. Foye is a legal voter of New Bedford and that a State election took place here November 7.

"Patrick J. Foye" was called.

A slender, boyish figure took the stand. Foye is only twenty-one, attaining his majority last August. He lives on Clark

ARIZONA VICTORY DUE TO HEARST, SAY SENATORS-ELECT

Prescott, Ariz., Dec. 15.
Editor AMERICAN:

There has been a Democratic landslide in Arizona. The entire Democratic Congressional and State ticket is elected, thus sending two Progressive Democrats to the United States Senate.

Permit me to thank Mr. Hearst for the powerful, timely and valuable assistance the Hearst newspapers gave to the Arizona Democrats. The immense energy and resourcefulness of the Hearst papers, which have widest circulation of any papers in the West, kept the issues before the people and exposed the duplicity of reactionary Republican leaders here.

Arizona will lead in progressive government. She will be a State of liberty, prosperity and of law and order. She is the land of opportunity and hope.

HENRY F. ASHURST,
United States Senator-elect.

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 15.
Editor AMERICAN:

I wish particularly to thank, for myself and for the Democracy of Arizona, William Randolph Hearst for the splendid aid that his papers gave to the Democracy in this long, hard battle. We owe a special debt of gratitude to the Los Angeles Examiner, that spared neither labor nor expense in securing the victory for Democracy.

United States Senator-elect.

"BIG BILL" TO TELL SECRETS?

William J. (Big Bill) Kelliher, convicted of helping George W. Coleman wreck the National City Bank of Cambridge, and sentenced to from fifteen to eighteen years in State prison, was to-day taken from the East Cambridge jail to the law office of United States District Attorney French at No. 45 Milk street.

Mystery surrounds the move in the case. Many rumors spread regarding it. One of the most persistent of the rumors was that Kelliher had concluded to tell all that he knows about the gambling syndicate with which it was alleged he was connected.

May Help "Big Bill."

The recent death of Martin Walsh, said to be the "Man Higher Up" in the gambling combine and for whom the police searched in vain, it was reported, might have had something to do with Kelliher's decision to unbosom himself.

Kelliher's case is pending in the Court of Appeals. This court will not take it up before next month some time. It is believed that in return for information that Kelliher might give to District Attorney French arrangements might be made that would benefit Kelliher, although he is already sentenced.

Kelliher raised bail amounting to $50,000 after his conviction. This was furnished by the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Company. When John L. Bates, receiver of the wrecked bank in Cambridge, had looked over the assets he decided to bring an action in behalf of the stockholders against Kelliher and his bonding company.

The bonding company not caring to get into any legal controversy decide dto withdraw the bond and "Big Bill" had to go to jail. That was about nine months ago. Since that time the big fellow has been a quiet and unostentatious prisoner, making no trouble for any one, and patiently awaiting the efforts of his lawyers through the Court of Appeals.

Surprise to State Street.

The new move in the Kelliher case was a surprise in State Street circles. Kelliher was taken out of the jail, placed in a taxi cab with two Federal officers and driven quickly to Mr. French's office.

So far as could be learned Kelliher's counsel was not with him at the conference with Mr. French. At the Federal building no one could be found who could throw any light on Kelliher's mysterious ride into Boston. Efforts to gain information on the matter at the East Cambridge Jail was also unsuccessful.

Kelliher lives at Winthrop and has a wife and children. His wife has stuck faithfully since he got into the toils of the police. She has done everything she could in the way of helping him and it was suggested that she may have been a factor in inducing him to tell the United States District Attorney all he knows about gambling in Boston, and especially in New York, where most of the so-called games took place.

INVITE HEARST TO SPEAK HERE ON PASSPORTS

A telegram was sent to William Randolph Hearst to-day by the Massachusetts Passport League, inviting him to join the list of speakers at the mass meeting to be held in Faneuil Hall on Sunday night, to urge the abrogation of the treaty of 1832 between America and Russia as the result of the refusal of Russia to recognize passports of all American citizens.

The telegram to Mr. Hearst reads:

Boston, Dec. 15, 1911.
Hon. William R. Hearst, New York city:

Massachusetts Passport League extends cordial invitation to speak at mass meeting, Faneuil Hall, Sunday night, to protest Russian treatment of American citizenship, and take action on abrogation of treaty.

ISAAC HELLER, Chairman,
Kimball building, Boston.

Await Word From Senators.

Word is being hourly expected from Senators Lodge and Crane, stating that they will be in Boston on Sunday night to attend the mass meeting. The list of speakers is growing larger all the time. Congressmen Murray and Curley will reach Boston on time to address the big gathering of people that will fill the "Cradle of Liberty."

That Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Governor Foss and Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham are heartily in favor of the movement is shown by the letters that they sent to the chairman of the committee when the meeting was first announced for December 3. Here is Senator Lodge's letter:

Mr. Lodge's Telegram.

Committee on Immigration.
November 29, 1911.

My Dear Sir—I have received your letter and am much indebted for your kind invitation to address the Jewish citizens of Boston at their meeting on the 3d. I have just returned to Washington, however, after several days' absence and I am sorry to say that in view of many important matters which must be attended to here, I shall be unable to leave the city at that time. Congress meets on December 14. I need hardly say that I am in entire sympathy with you in the matter of the violation by Russia of the terms of the treaty of 1832, and I intend to do everything possible to bring about equal treatment for all American citizens in that country. It would be a real pleasure for me to attend the

AUTOPSY ON BODY OF MAN FOUND IN RIVER

Medical Examiner Magrath is holding an autopsy to-day on the body of an unidentified man which was taken from the Charles River near the Cottage Farm bridge. There is a possible fracture of the man's skull, one eye is blackened, and there appeared to be no water in the lungs. The last fact indicates the man died before he struck the water. The man was seen walking across the bridge from the direction of Cambridge yesterday morning by John J. Murphy, the gate tender stationed there. Later Murphy discovered his body floating in the river and notified the Metropolitan Park police, who recovered it.

ELIOT IMPROVING, SAYS CABLEGRAM

President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, who underwent an operation for appendicitis a week ago at Kandy, Ceylon, is improving, according to a cablegram received to-day by his son, Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot of Cambridge. The message follows: "Glad to advise patient more comfortable." The cablegram was unsigned, and was believed to have been sent by authorities at the Kandy Hospital.

W. O. SOUTHER, JR., SUES FOR DIVORCE

William O. Souther, Jr., a Selectman of Cohasset, to-day filed a suit for divorce against his wife, Louise, in the Dedham Court. He alleges that she deserted him on November 13, 1908, after living happily with him for three years. He asks for the custody of their child, Nathan, who was born on July 20, 1908.

POPE GRANTS BOSTON HONOR

Cardinal O'Connell, in a dispatch received in Boston to-day, states that the Pope has granted the privilege of the Roman office to the clergy of the Archdiocese of Boston, and that the privilege will become operative on January 1, 1912.

After that date priests in the Boston diocese will be permitted to conduct the recital of the office as though they were under the immediate jurisdiction of the Pontiff in Rome. The favor is one that is seldom granted and is held by but a few American dioceses.

ROME, Dec. 15.—Cardinal O'Connell, presiding over a meeting in his titular church, San Clements, heard the question considered of how best to preserve the church from damage by the waters which flow under its foundations.

Already a large sum has been contributed for the construction of brick aqueducts, by which it is expected to change the course of the stream.

The sum of $12,000 is still lacking to complete the work. Cardinal O'Connell expressed the hope that this amount would be forthcoming from American generosity.

PROBE DEATH OF ROXBURY MAN

Chief Inspector Joseph Dugan and a corps of inspectors from police headquarters to-day started an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Charles W. Brehm, a Roxbury teamster, who fell mortally wounded from his team on Bynner street, near Day street, Jamaica Plain, last Wednesday afternoon, and died before reaching the City Hospital. The police believe he was murdered.

Brehm was supposed to have died from natural causes, but a bullet found in his abdomen, during an autopsy performed upon the body by Medical Examiner Timothy D. Leary at the City Hospital morgue last night, indicated that Brehm had been murdered.

The case promises to be one of the most puzzling murder mysteries that has confronted the Boston police in several years. Every man attached to the Roxbury Crossing station is working on the case, but, so far as it is known no trace of the murderer or the weapon with which the crime was committed has been found.

Brehm was fifty-two years old and lived

RICHESON GETS DATA FOR TRIAL

Certain data in the possession of District Attorney Pelletier to which the lawyers who represent the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson are entitled is to be delivered to them to-day when William A. Morse confers with the District Attorney, supplementing the talk the defence attorneys had with him yesterday.

As a result of the conference between the District Attorney, Mr. Morse, John L. Lee, Beverly R. Harrison and Philip R. Dunbar, who constitute the attorneys who will defend Richeson, these points have been decided definitely:

First, there is to be no compromise in the case—Richeson is innocent and entitled to freedom, or guilty and deserves the penalty for first degree murder.

Second, the trial will begin January 15, one month from to-day and three months after the arrest of Richeson.

Third, Judge Sanderson, the district attorney who with Attorney-General Parker prosecuted Charles L. Tucker, will preside at the Richeson trial.

Fourth, the defence will be furnished at once with a list of witnesses for the prosecution. Later the defence will get a list of the talesmen.

Fifth, District Attorney Pelletier and Thomas D. Lavelle will prosecute Richeson. Police Inspectors McGarr and Armstrong will be on the case for the District Attorney from now until it closes.

Will Be Great Legal Battle.

The decks are practically cleared now for one of the greatest legal battles in a poison murder case that New England ever saw. From now up to Monday, January 15, every effort of the lawyers on both sides of the controversy will be exerted to make a case that will not fail.

Two features of the trial stand out beyond everything else—the fact that a clergyman, taken practically from his pulpit, where he stood high in the estimation of his church, is to be tried for murder in the first degree—a murder so cunning and so fiendish, if the allegations in the indictment are true, that it is almost unprecedented in the annals of criminal history.

Another feature of the case is the celerity with which the trial is to be held. In no other murder in this State where the case was of so much prominence, probably has the accused man been so speedily tried as it is planned to try Richeson.

The District Attorney is willing to give the counsel for the defence every facility consistent with the ends of justice, even to see the witnesses called before the Grand Jury or those to be summoned in the trial.

The attorneys who will fight for the life of the clergyman to-day declared, following the consultation last evening, that they were "content." Confidence is expressed in every utterance of Richeson's lawyers.

The lawyers are non-committal, but it is believed that the accused clergyman will certainly be a witness in his own behalf when he goes on trial before Judge Sanderson.

Deny Marriage Story.

The Chief Justice, after hearing the pleas of counsel for each side, decided that it rested with the trial judge and the District Attorney to say whether or not the

PLEA TO PUBLIC BY MAIL MEN

The Boston letter carriers have adopted a slogan designed to meet the growing idea of postoffice patrons that the mail man, during the Christmas season, is cousin to an express wagon or brother to an ox or related in some way to something that can tote a pile.

"Load others as you'd have them load you," is the way the slogan reads and to dispel any idea as to the kind of a load meant the motto is accompanied by a picture of a man laboring under many bundles.

A large number of the packages sent through the mail, although not very heavy, are bulky and hard to carry. When a carrier has a bagful of letters and papers, these parcels become added weight, as they used to say at Guttenberg, N. Y. The necessity of hiring a horse and wagon, which, by the way, must be paid for by the letter carrier, not by the Government, as many people think—becomes a certain means of reducing the mail man's pay. That's why the carriers are appealing to the public.

The mailman must make one trip on Christmas morning. This trip is worse than a day's work on ordinary occasions. It generally requires four or five hours for that delivery. The Christmas turkey for the mailman comes on December 26.

The mailmen's plea, in addition to the ordinary slogan, is, "mail your Christmas packages early, and, if you have any large, bulky packages, send them by express."

HUNT SLAYER IN SPRINGFIELD

The police of Springfield to-day searched in that city for Eduardo Donato, an undersized Italian farm hand, who is sought by the authorities of Rensselaer County, N. Y., in connection with the brutal murder of Mrs. Conrad Morner, a rich widow of Defreestville, N. Y., her son Arthur, and her two daughters, Blanche and Edith.

The bodies of the four victims were found hacked and battered in the back of the cow barn on the Morner farm.

Donato, the farm hand, had worked for the Morners since last August. He is missing. Detectives from Troy, N. Y., the county seat of Rensselaer County, started out on his trail as soon as the murders were discovered. But the farm hand had a good start.

Bloodhounds were brought into use. They followed the man's scent as far as a trolley line four miles from the Morner farm. At the trolley tracks the dogs gave up the trail.

Leased wire dispatches from Buffalo stated that a man believed to be Donato was arrested there to-day.

The Springfield police to-day started a systematic search of every boarding house in the Italian quarter. A linotype operator on a local newspaper supplied the police with their information. He said he had seen a man answering Donato's description on the street about 10:30. The printer said the Italian's eyes were bloodshot and his manner excited. The man accosted the linotype operator and asked to be directed to an Italian boarding house.

Sheriff Cottrell of Hudson is expected at Pittsfield to-day with a deputy sheriff to aid in the search for the alleged slayer. So far as the police here know, Donato had no relatives living here.

The detectives figured that Donato went to Troy, where he could get railroad travel. Though the only description of the farmhand which could be obtained from neighbors of the murdered family is that he is a small, thin man in a brown, striped suit and long dark overcoat, they managed to pick up his trail at Troy railroad station. They figured he went from Troy to Albany and thence down the Hudson river to Hudson. There a branch line runs up to Chatham, connecting with the Boston & Albany. It was found that a man answering Donato's description had started from Hudson, via the branch line, to Pittsfield.

BROADEN SCOPE OF BRIBE HUNT

street and, according to his own statement, has no regular occupation. He registered as a voter just before the September primaries. This was in preparation for his maiden vote. He testified to these facts in answer to preliminary questions.

Questioned by Walsh.

Foye received the breathless attention of the entire audience. This interest became tense as David I. Walsh brought his questions to bear on the alleged vote-buying.

Q.—How came you to be registered? A.—John E. Murphy sent for me.

Q.—Were others registered at the same time? A.—Yes, Murphy sent five of us down together.

Q.—Did you vote at the primaries? A.—Yes.

Q.—And this was your first vote? A.—Yes.

J.—Was that vote influenced? A.—Yes.

At this question spectators whispered among themselves, asking if the present allegations of vote-buying at State election was to involve Foye's primary vote, too. This question was speedily answered in the next testimony, thus:

Q.—For whom did you vote at the primaries? A.—For Frothingham.

Q.—Was any money paid you for that vote? A.—Yes.

Q.—How much? A.—Three dollars.

Walsh Question Allowed.

John Walsh was on his feet by this time, objecting on the ground that the court was not trying a case of alleged bribery at the primaries.

David I. Walsh replied, saying that the prosecution admitted the primary vote was not mentioned in the complaint but that the prosecution desired to present this evidence regarding the primary vote in order to show the connection of certain men with the case and the intent to these men. David I. Walsh was allowed to proceed. He asked Foye:

"Who paid you the three dollars?"

The boyish witness replied slowly: "John E. Murphy."

Q.—And you voted for Frothingham in the primaries? A.—Yes.

Q.—And upon the promise of John E. Murphy that you would receive $3? A.—Yes.

Q.—And was this money paid you? A.—Yes.

Q.—State when and where? A.—It was paid to me the next day in the Frothingham headquarters.

Prominent Men in Court.

The Third District Court room was crowded when Judge Frank M. Milliken opened court to-day, with the alleged vote-buying case of John E. Murphy, the Republican leader, as the star item on the docket.

Ordinarily the routine of the city police court attracts only friends of the petty defendants and the few hangers-on who frequent the court house. But the Murphy case drew spectators from the business and professional ranks. Business men, physicians, attorneys, clergymen and others prominent in civic and social affairs came to hear the sensational testimony which had been prophesied.

Among the clergymen present were Rev. Frank B. Ramsdell, pastor of the North Congregational Church and a member of the citizens' committee which started the investigation of two years ago; Rev. James I. Bartholomew, pastor of the County Street M. E. Church, and Rev. Frank H. Peters, pastor of the First Christian Church.

These representatives of New Bedford clergy were watched curiously as they took seats. Comment was made that congregations may expect some sharp sermons at any time on the subject of corruption of voters.

By the time court was called the room was jammed to the last seat, with an overflow crowd trying to edge its way past the doorkeepers.

John E. Murphy came in accompanied by his counsel, Alderman-elect John B. Lowney. Murphy, knowing practically everyone in the court, nodded to several men who caught his eye. He seemed confident.

Lawyers in Conference.

David I. Walsh, who represents the legal end of the prosecution, entered, and was immediately beckoned into conference with Attorney Lowney. The two lawyers talked with Judge Milliken briefly.

Then Mr. Lowney asked for a stay of proceedings for an hour or so, pending the arrival of two witnesses whom he described as important to the defence. Mr. Walsh offered no objection, so Judge Milliken ordered a recess till 10:15. A few left the court room on this announcement, but the majority stayed, fearing to lose the seats they had obtained.

It became known about the court to-day that more arrests are expected in the alleged bribery cases. Four men have already been arrested, Murphy being the last. The other three are to appear next Wednesday for continued hearing. Murphy was before the court yesterday to plead not guilty. Then a continuance was granted until to-day.

NIELSEN SONGS CHARM THRONG

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

There was a concert by Miss Alice Nielsen and George Proctor, the pianist, at Mrs. John L. Gardner's Palace in the Fens yesterday afternoon. There was a very large audience, so large that all the chairs were occupied and several score of fashionable people sat on the stairs leading to the pretty balcony of the music room.

The chance to hear Miss Nielsen and Proctor, as well as the prospect of getting a peek inside the palace and perhaps a glimpse of Mrs. Gardner herself, may have brought some of the spectators. If they hoped to see the whole palace they were disappointed, because one passes directly into the music room from the front door and the windows looking into the Italian garden courtyard were screened.

But Mrs. Gardner was there and everybody saw her. She wore black, and a black hat with a top made of white fluffy stuff that a lady kindly named for me but which I forgot to write down. She said it was very expensive.

Mrs. Gardner occupied a seat in one corner of the balcony, but she did not remain in it. She climbed up and down the balcony stairs over the settees half a dozen times. She wore squeaky shoes and she punctuated Proctor's playing by walking around the balcony and opening a window with her own hands on the opposite side from which she was sitting. The ladies in the vicinity immediately put on furs, but the fresh air was needed.

It was a delightful concert taken by and large. Miss Nielsen was a charming picture in her white gown, and her voice was just as clear and pure and sweet as ever. Her art has heightened since we last heard her. Seldom has the "Voi che sapete" of Mozart been sung in this city with such grace and loveliness. Her intelligence and vocal gifts enabled her to make the "Mandoline" of Claude Debussy one of the most fascinating, fetching and wholly winning songs I have ever heard, and I am not so awfully fond of Debussy.

Miss Nielsen's is a brilliant voice, but it is not without dramatic qualities, as was shown in an aria from "The Secret of Susanne," a new opera by Wolf-Ferrari, which, by the way, is a very beautiful thing.

George Proctor's gifts are well known. He played a Bach gavotte, a Schumann Toccata, and Debussy's "Serenade dans Grenade" with equal excellence.

Edward Lankow, the new bass of the opera, was heard in several numbers and displayed a smoothness and aptitude for the concert hall remarkable in a man with such tremendous bass tones.

BOSTON WIFE FAILS TO PROVE BIGAMY

YONKERS, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Mrs. Harriet Marquedant of Boston, was unable to prove in the Court of Special Sessions at Yonkers yesterday, that her husband, Charles W. Marquedant, a commission merchant of No. 62 Belvidere Drive, Yonkers, was guilty of bigamy. She repeated the conversation, which she said took place between himself and a woman representing herself as Mrs. Marquedant, who responded when she rang the bell of Marquedant's home on Tuesday. Judge Beal said their statements were not conclusive evidence upon which a charge of bigamy might be preferred.

SHIP MERGER MUST BE LEGAL

In a letter written by President Henry Hornblower of the Boston Stock Exchange to Mayor Fitzgerald, which was made public to-day, the Mayor is assured that if there is a merger of the Eastern Steamship Company, the Maine Steamship Company and the Metropolitan Steamship Company the new company will be required to conform to all of the requirements of the law before the stock is listed on the exchange.

Mayor Fitzgerald had called the attention of President Taft to the proposed consolidation, which indicated that the stock of the new company would contain $3,000,000 of "water," and declared that the merger ought to be stopped because a boost in freight rates was liable to follow. Mr. Hornblower's letter to the Mayor follows:

Boston, Dec. 13, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of December 13 in reference to capitalization of the proposed consolidation of steamship companies. If the consolidation is formed and the securities are offered for listing on this exchange, the new company will be obliged to comply with the usual requirements. The committee will be glad at that time to consider your suggestions insofar as they may be pertinent to the subject.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) HENRY HORNBLOWER,
President.

The Mayor pointed out that it was proposed that shareholders of the Eastern Steamship Company would receive $3,000,000 in bonds and the same amount in stock, the net result of which would be to give $200 in securities for $100 of the old stock, thus making $8,000,000 of "water," upon which the new company would have to pay dividends.

Hale and Hearty at 71

One of the first men to respond to President Lincoln's call for troops says this great tonic stimulant is good for old and young.

"I am 71 years of age this coming March, a veteran of the Civil War and one of the first to respond to President Lincoln's call for 75,000 troops; was taken prisoner at Battle Front Royal, Va., leaving there a skeleton from chronic diarrhoea and scurvy—half naked.

Prevention of Accidents

The serious injury or death of a small child as result of a trolley accident arouses the keenest sympathy of the public, and all connected with our Company.

As a rule, lack of care by the one injured or whose life was lost is the cause of the calamity, but unfortunately this knowledge brings consolation to no one except, perhaps, the motorman who earnestly endeavored to prevent the accident without success.

WE BELIEVE THE SITUATION DEMANDS THE CO-OPERATION OF THE PUBLIC AND THE COMPANY. IT IS TO THE COMMON ADVANTAGE OF ALL CONCERNED TO PREVENT SUCH ACCIDENTS.

ALL ACCIDENTS DUE TO CARELESSNESS ARE AVOIDABLE.
HOW CAN THE NUMBER OF SUCH ACCIDENTS BE REDUCED?

How is it possible to induce other users of the highway to be more careful of their own safety? This problem the Company is earnestly endeavoring to solve.

All have equal rights in the use of the streets. The highways are the great avenues of commerce and intercourse. Modern methods of business and civilization necessarily require the use of street cars, automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles. They have become to-day absolute necessities. Life in a modern city would be difficult if not impossible without them. They must necessarily be used, but they all involve a varying element of danger.

Adults realize the danger, but CHILDREN do not always, unless they are INSTRUCTED AND CAUTIONED.

We earnestly desire to co-operate with those who have the custody and instruction of children in an effort to COMPEL THE CHILDREN TO THINK AND REMEMBER.

With this object in view we offer 204 prizes to be paid in Gold. These prizes are offered for verses in rhyme of not over twenty-four lines for the entire composition, concerning caution in the streets, particularly relating to street cars.

All boys and girls in the High Schools or in Private Schools of a similar grade, who live in the cities and towns in which we operate, may compete.

The one awarded the first prize will be printed in attractive form for circulation. It will be distributed among the pupils of the Grammar, Primary and Kindergarten grades in the Metropolitan district. Other prize-winning verses may be printed and circulated from time to time.

$50 in gold for the First Prize
$25 in gold for the Second Prize
$15 in gold for the Third Prize
$10 in gold for the Fourth Prize and $2.50 in gold for the next best 200 submitted.

Send the verses to the Boston Elevated Railway Company, Room 210, 101 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

Write "Verse Competition" in the lower left-hand corner of your envelope.

Write on a single sheet of paper and on one side only.

On the back of the sheet write the name and address of the author, and the name and grade of the school.

Clearness and simplicity of expression and good English will be considered in determining the choice.

All manuscripts must be received at the above address before 9:00 A. M., January 1, 1912.

Certain officials of the Company, designated by the management, will act as judges and as soon as practicable the successful winners will be announced through the newspapers, as well as by personal notification.

BOSTON GIRL TO RESCUE $75,000

MISS METHVEN, WHO WILL MARRY TO SAVE $75,000

JENNETTE METHUEN

Brookline actress says she will become the bride of Charles Corbin of New Britain, Ct., if he desires it so he may save $75,000 under the terms of his father's will.

Little Jennette Methven, who lives with her uncle at No. 175 Winthrop road, Brookline, when she isn't working on the stage, comes to bat to-day with a proposition to save $75,000 for Charles Corbin of New Britain, Ct.

How would she do it? Simple. Just marry Mr. Corbin. The terms of his father's eccentric will may be relied upon to do the rest of this highly important financial transaction.

"I've never seen Mr. Corbin in my life," said Miss Methven to-day, "but if I can help him annex a wad like $75,000 I'll marry him in a minute. Goodness me, I think I'd be tempted to marry a hippopotamus if it could save $75,000."

Miss Methven's sacrificial spirit, however, may not appeal to Mr. Corbin. According to dispatches from New Britain to-day, he says he would rather lose $75,000 than get married. He's been married once, and he says that is more than enough for him.

"The man who gets married the second time," observed Mr. Corbin, "didn't deserve to lose his first wife."

Odd Terms of Will.

Mr. Corbin is a son of Philip Corbin, founder of the Hardware Trust, and in the will of his father appeared this clause:

"If within one year from my death Charles Corbin, my son, shall be legally married, he shall receive $150,000 in cash from my estate. If he is not legally married he shall receive $75,000."

Corbin has but twenty-four hours in which to win or lose $75,000 at the matrimonial game. But according to his own statement he will not be a starter. He said:

"I do not expect to get married before Saturday and I do not expect to get married at all. The money at stake isn't sufficient to tempt me."

Miss Methven who is in Boston for the holidays declares she is in dead earnest in her proposal to Corbin. "I think," she added to-day, "that if Mr. Corbin takes me up he ought to slice the $75,000 with me, I think about 60 to 40. Still, if I got the money, I'd not give up the stage. I'm too proud of this life. What's that? Why didn't I tell you? Surely, I'm with Eddie Foy in his new comedy and we are going to play in Boston in a couple of weeks. I'm just here visiting my uncle's folks."

But to get back to Mr. Corbin, whom Miss Methven so bravely desires to rescue from an embarrassing position. He is somewhat elderly and has had a more or less spectacular career, and his life story, chronicled by years, runs about like this:

Becomes Almost Recluse.

In 1882 he married Lillian Ursula Blakeslee. She did not have the social position of the Corbins, and his family frowned on the match.

About 1897 his father sent him to a sanitarium because of his habits. He stayed there several years. Then he went to the country place owned by his father.

In 1908 his wife obtained a divorce on the grounds of intemperance and desertion. The couple had two children.

After his wife got a decree, Corbin reformed and went to work in his father's factory. He became almost a recluse, and it is doubted if he goes to court to-morrow to see his father's millions distributed. It is understood he will leave his interests there in his son's hands. His children will be rich anyhow.

Mrs. Blakeslee, as the divorced wife is known by court sanction, is living in New York and, although no longer young, is still beautiful. She has been the heroine of several romantic stories. One is that Paul Smith, a celebrated Adirondack hotel keeper, was a suitor for her hand. Another is that she was to have married James E. Sanford of Warwick, N. Y., on June 29, 1909, but that the wedding was called off suddenly and that an anonymous letter was one of the barriers set up before the altar.

EXPRESS KILLS BOY IN WAGON

PLYMOUTH, Dec. 15.—Seventeen-year-old Horace Clough was instantly killed here to-day when a horse attached to a delivery wagon which he was driving became frightened and bolted down Lothrop street, directly in front of a moving express train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

The 7:48 express to Boston was just leaving the station. The gate-tender, seeing the delivery wagon tearing down towards the grade crossing, stepped in the middle of the road waving his red flag.

But it was too late. Before the boy could jump from the wagon it was struck squarely by the train.

Our Improvements

We wish to call particular attention to the many improvements which we have made within the past year, and made chiefly for the purpose of the better accommodation of our proverbial holiday crowds. Our aisles on the Tremont Street floor have been so widened as to double the former space, and the departments have been rearranged to aid still farther in this direction. We have also opened a spacious entrance from our Tremont Street floor direct to No. 2 Beacon Street (through our new Japanese Art Room). Our customers will, therefore, be enabled to shop with much greater ease and comfort than ever before during the Christmas rush.

DO NOT FAIL TO SEE OUR

Grand Illumination

The finest by far that we have ever had, and undoubtedly the most elaborate and splendid electric illumination ever lighted in this country. Also enter our main aisle and walk down under the holly arcade. It is a perfect dream.

EXPLANATORY CARD

We do not wish our customers to get the impression that, in keeping our store open evenings for their convenience, we are overworking our force. The force is so large that we use three relays a day. Hence, when our store is open evenings, our saleswomen, bundle girls, etc., do not work any longer than usual, and our salespeople receive one per cent of their sales.

RICHESON TRIAL FACTS SETTLED

defence should have access to all the exhibits in the possession of the State. These include things found in Richeson's room in Cambridge after his arrest.

It was again rumored to-day that Richeson was already the husband of Miss Violet Edmands of Brookline, to whom he became engaged after he was expected to marry Miss Linnell of Hyannis. The attorneys for the clergyman ridiculed the report.

As to the conference yesterday, District Attorney Pelletier said:

District Attorney's Statement.

"You may say that Chief Justice Aiken has appointed Judge Sanderson to sit at the trial, that the trial will go on on January 15, as originally determined, and that at the conference just held matters of procedure were decided which it is not fitting at this time that the public should know of, as they are matters only for the Court, counsel for the defence and the government."

Mr. Lee said he would leave December 21 for his home, to spend Christmas, and that he would return to Boston for the trial December 26. He said he wanted to see his little girl, and to "get back to the country of plum pudding and egg nogs."

Issue Venire in Few Days.

The venire for the jurors for the trial will be issued about Christmas time. Under the law no special time is fixed, except that service must be made on a juror at least four days before the time required of him to attend court. It is customary in this county to issue a venire about three weeks before the day set for a trial.

The government will have to summon the witnesses for the defence. It is said that some of them are in the South. The court has authority to appoint a commissioner to examine any material witnesses living out of the State and the prosecuting attorney has the same privilege as the defence in asking for such commissioner. Depositions could be taken then at the places where the witnesses live. It is probable, however, that the witnesses in this case who are out of the State will appear in court.

District Attorney Pelletier and Assistant District Attorney Thomas D. Lavelle will spend the greater part of their time between now and January 15 in preparing for the trial with the assistance of Captain McGarr and Captain Armstrong.

NEWSMEN'S SHOW DRAWS BIG HOUSE

The second and last performance of the "King of Udono Isle" at Jordan Hall last night by the Hotel and Railroad News Company's Mutual Relief and Benefit Association, drew one of the largest audiences that the association has ever secured for a performance. SHILOHITES TO HEAR SANDFORD'S ORDERS

SHILOH, Me., Dec. 15.—Members of the Holy Ghost and Us Society are flocking to Shiloh to receive the commands of their leader, the Rev. Frank W. Sandford, who is to be sentenced in the Portland Federal Court on December 18 on the charge of manslaughter in causing by neglect the death of six members on his yacht Coronet.

MISS ELKINS'S 'SUITOR' INSANE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—That Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of the late Senator from West Virginia, and at one time reported betrothed to the Duke of the Abruzzi of the Italian royal family, has for the last two years been harassed by the missives of an unwelcome suitor, came to light when Samuel B. McHenry, a Chicago inventor, was committed to the Government Hospital for the Insane on her complaint.

McHenry, who is about forty-five years old, was arrested at the door of the Elkins residence here. He had come from Chicago, he said, to ask for Miss Elkins's hand. He sent his card to the heiress and a servant telephoned for the police. Since then he has been under observation in a local hospital.

PIMPLES SO DISFIGURING HE SHUNNED FRIENDS

Face Completely Covered. Blackheads, Too. Lasted Four Years. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Face Is Now Smooth.

"I was bothered with pimples and blackheads in the worst way for over four years. My face and arms were completely covered with them. The pimples would come out on my face and fester all up. They would scab over, and make my face sore, besides being so disfiguring that I shunned my friends. I tried facial cream balms and benzoine with no effect.

"One night I asked a friend what was good for pimples, and he advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which I did. I would wash my face first with hot water and Cuticura Soap, and then put on some Cuticura Ointment, let it stay on five minutes, and then wash my face again with the Cuticura Soap. It would draw the blackheads out as nice, and the pimples, oh say, it was one grand relief to go among my friends and be jolly again. After using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, my face is as smooth as if there never had been a pimple on it. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I hope others will profit by them as much as I have. I know they will after giving them just one trial." (Signed) Arthur E. Caswell, R. F. D. No. 2, Portsmouth, N. H., May 6, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 8A, Boston.

HEARST INVITED HERE FOR PASSPORT PROTEST

meeting, but I am sure you will appreciate the reasons which prevent me from being present on that occasion. Please extend my thanks to the members of the league for their letter, and believe me.

Very truly yours,
H. C. LODGE.

Isaac Heller, Esq.,
Massachusetts Passport League,
Kimball Building, Boston.

Governor Foss's Letter.

Here is the letter from Governor Foss in which he declares that he is heartily in sympathy with the cause and that he stands ready to exert every effort in its behalf:

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Executive Department,
Boston, Nov. 29, 1911.
Mr. Isaac Heller,
Kimball Bldg., Boston.

Dear Mr. Heller:

I have written you a few days ago of my inability to attend the meeting Sunday evening next in behalf of the Massachusetts Passport League.

I am heartily in sympathy with the cause, and only wish that I could be present in Boston to attend this meeting and personally say to my fellow citizens words in encouragement of this movement.

You can rest assured that the cause has my entire sympathy, and any effort I can exert in their behalf will surely be in that direction.

Yours very sincerely,
EUGENE N. FOSS.

Mr. Frothingham to Be Present.

Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham deems it a pleasure to be of service to the League. He is going to this meeting. Here is his letter regarding the deferred meeting:

State House, Boston, Nov. 28, 1911.

Dear Mr. Heller:

Your letter of November 25, asking me to attend the meeting on Sunday evening, December 3, to be held for the purpose of aiding the cause for the abrogation of the treaty with Russia has duly reached me.

Unfortunately, I shall not be able to attend any meeting Sunday evening, December 3, because I already have an engagement contracted some time ago, which I cannot break.

If I could attend, you may rest assured that it would give me the greatest pleasure to be of any service to you personally, and beside that I am deeply interested in the cause.

With many regrets, I am,
Yours very truly,
LOUIS A. FROTHINGHAM.

Commedation by Schiff.

Jacob H. Schiff, the New York banker, warmly commends the movement.

The meeting promises to be one of the most enthusiastic ever held in Boston's historic hall. A demand for justice will be made there, such as those walls have heard many times before. Some of the best speakers in the country will make addresses.

Among those who will speak will be Governor Foss, Leon Sanders, grand master of the Order Brith Abraham; former Governor John L. Bates, former Congressman John A. Kelliher, Rabbi Henry Levy of the Temple Adath Israel and Rabbi M. M. Eicaler of the Union Park Street Temple. Chairman Isaac Heller of the Massachusetts Passport League will preside.

Brandeis a Speaker.

Among others who have been invited to be present and make addresses are President Allen T. Treadway of the State Senate, Speaker Joseph Walker, President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, Bishop William Lawrence, Rev Charles F. Dole and Louis D. Brandeis.

Here is a telegram received by the league from Jacob H. Schiff, the banker:

> I much regret that previous engagement here prevents my being with you on Sunday. You are right to move vigorously in a movement which is American and not merely sectional, and which so deeply concerns the dignity and self-respect of the government and the country we so proudly call our own. It is also much of a satisfaction and encouragement that both of the United States Senators from your State, whose influence is so far-reaching, have given assurance of their unreserved co-operation, which should go far to assure a successful outcome. Please express to those present at your meeting my warm interest and convey to them a message of cheer on my part.
> JACOB H. SCHIFF.

Bishop Anderson's Views.

Bishop Joseph G. Anderson of Boston was asked to attend the meeting, but while not being able to be present he sent a communication that rang true with the spirit of the movement.

"Let the protest of Boston citizens," he wrote, "go forth ringing from Faneuil Hall, the Cradle of Liberty, throughout the land, until it's loud notes are heard reechoing in the halls of Congress, demanding that the passport of American citizenship be recognized by Russia for all our citizens, or else let the treaty now and forever with her be abrogated.

"We demand this as due to the dignity of American citizenship, and we demand that this country stand true to her duties of protecting, defending and upholding the honor of all her citizens wherever found in any part of this earth."

Willis A. Rosenbloom, a student at Mechanic Arts High school will read the Declaration of Independence at the mass meeting Sunday evening.

After considering the names of several pupils of the Boston schools, the officers of the Passport League decided to select young Rosenbloom. He is fifteen years old and a junior at the Mechanic Arts school. He has often discussed public affairs in debate at the West End House, where he is a regular attendant. The boy graduated from the Wendell Phillips school, West End. He was present at a meeting in the West End House when the officers were asked for the names of boys capable of delivering the Declaration and his name was forwarded by the house officers. Young Rosenbloom lives with his parents at No. 4 Parkman street.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Sulzer resolution demanding the abrogation of the Russian treaty of 1832 because of discriminations against American Jews and others, already passed by the House, was taken up promptly by the Senate.

The result of a running debate on the question of whether to refer it to the Committee on Foreign Relations or to act immediately was an assurance by the committee that it would report Monday.

The Senate may then adopt either the resolution, with a slight change, or the Culbertson resolution, which is practically identical with it.

"The time has come for a determination of this question," Senator Rayner said. "The treaty has been violated for the past forty years. We should act now."

Mae and Wilhelmina Cotton, 'Musical Twins,' in Big Concert

MAE AND WILHELMINA COTTON

Young women, who sometimes "cannot tell each other apart," will play together at Conservatory concert.

The musical critics are going to be up against it to-night at the Conservatory concert in Jordan Hall when it comes to criticising the playing of the Mozart concerto in E flat for two pianos.

The Mozart concerto is to be performed by the Misses Mae and Wilhelmina Cotton, and it would be a bold reviewer who would dare to say whether it was Mae or Wilhelmina who struck the false note, not that there is likely to be any false note, for both young women know all about this Mozart concerto.

The Misses Cotton are twins. They are nineteen years old, or they is nineteen years old, whichever is grammatical as applied to twins. They look so much alike that sometimes they deceive each other. Mae is pretty and Wilhelmina is just like her.

They are the only twins in the Conservatory of Music. They dress alike, wear their hair alike, talk alike and play the piano in much the same way.

It will cause people who don't know about them to rub their eyes when they see what looks like the same girl sit down at two pianos and charge down upon the E Flat Concerto.

The Misses Cotton are among the brightest pupils at the Conservatory. They are the daughters of Mrs. Pursis Cotton of No. 346 Cabot street, Newtonville.

P. S. A. REPLY DUE TO-DAY

The Public School Association is expected to reply to-day to the statement by Mrs. Susan W. FitzGerald, candidate for the School Board, who charges the association with animosity toward the teachers because they declined to aid the association in the contest for the School Board.

Mrs. FitzGerald characterizes the association's recent statement as an "extraordinary attack" upon the teachers, and charges an attempt to restrain their liberty. This is what she has to say:

Mrs. FitzGerald's Statement.

"The Public School Association, failing to secure the aid of the teachers in this contest, has resorted to an extraordinary attack upon them—whether in an attempt to injure my candidacy or simply to prove Mr. Brock's denial yesterday that the teachers are against the School Committee—is not for me to determine.

"In my belief a democracy recognizes the right of its citizens to retain their individual freedom of political action, even though they be in the public employ.

"In proof of this theory we have no less authority than Mr. Joseph Lee, who explained publicly last year that his visit to the Governor in connection with certain school legislation "was wholly in his private capacity as a citizen and not as a member of the school committee."

"The teachers are deeply concerned both individually and as citizens in the conduct of the schools, and they are educational experts. Therefore their votes in the election of members of the committee is of great importance and carries much weight. To try to terrorize them into silence would be an extraordinary line of policy and if successful would deprive us of a very important factor in the control of school affairs.

The P. S. A. Slogan.

"The letters cited by the association show a restraint and dignity quite in contrast with the utterances of the supporters of the present School Board. Nothing is contained in these letters that is not eminently proper. They are the contributions of teachers acting well within their capacity as citizens and contain not the slightest criticism of the present School Committee.

"I wonder how the police and fire departments manage to regulate the acts of their members when off duty?

"Certainly it will be a matter of deep interest for us all to see what action the School Committee will take in this matter in its effort to further emphasize its 'friendly and sympathetic relations with the teachers.'

"The slogan of the P. S. A. may be to keep the public schools out of politics, but the School Committee is a body having some existence apart from the P. S. A., and some will remember that it was at the special and emphatic suggestion of the committee that the teachers entered politics last year to secure their salary increase.

GALE AND SNOW NEXT ON LIST

The weather bureau in Washington today ordered storm warnings posted on the New England coast from Boston to Block Island. There will be high winds and snow in New England and northern New York and general rains throughout the Eastern and Southern States.

At the local weather Bureau to-day it was officially recorded that Boston's first snow storm, early today, barely covered the ground with the little white flakes, lasted thirty minutes and then quit business. The rain is due to continue throughout the night and to-morrow.

The weather all over the country is generally unsettled.

CHANLER TO GIVE DIVORCE DINNER

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The tribunal of the Seine has fixed the 25th of January as the date for pronouncing the divorce in the Cavalieri-Chanler case. The date will also mark a divorce dinner to be given to his friends by Robert Winthrop Chanler.

Chanler believes in celebrating his freedom from the bonds of matrimony as much as he does in making the occasion when two are made one the excuse for a large feast.

The idea of a divorce dinner, which began in the Plaza Hotel in New York, which is now taken up by Chanler here, may start a new fashion in the capital. When Chanler gives a dinner to celebrate the regaining of his freedom he says he does not regret having taken a flyer in the matrimonial stock market. This he says in face of the fact that the venture has cost him $75,000.

The judge before whom the case is called thinks Cavalieri and Chanler are the vaguest persons that ever have come before him. Neither impressed him with having any sense of the obligation arising from a matrimonial or other contract.

PROVERB LIST NEXT SUNDAY

ELOPING CLERK SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. George B. MacVicar, the former "counter clerk," whose elopement less than a year ago, caused a stir among her acquaintances, has filed a divorce libel against her "soda fountain clerk husband," charging him with cruelty.

Mrs. MacVicar, nee Esther P. Holley, of Everett, is nineteen years old and her husband is twenty-seven. They were married in Nashua, N. H., February 11, of this year. She declares that on September 8 and at other times her husband was cruel.

Both were employed in a downtown spa, he as a clerk at the soda fountain and she at one of the counters. The news of the marriage did not leak out until two weeks after the elopement. The couple lived in Boston until recently, when Mrs. MacVicar returned to her mother's home at No. 12 Arlington street, Everett.

MacVicar, who is now employed as a soda fountain attendant by a Tremont street confectioner, when asked about the divorce proceedings said: "My wife asks for a divorce and to be allowed to resume her maiden name. In that the words in the libel bearing on alimony are crossed out, she is welcome to all she asks. Far be it from me to contest the libel."

Mrs. Holly, mother of the young woman, when seen at her home, said: "It isn't a case of 'too much mother-in-law.' Before the marriage George was welcome here. This was not true afterward, for the way he treated me in eloping with my daughter was enough to set any girl's mother against him. My daughter is now working in Malden. I will be glad when she has been granted a divorce."

MRS. G. B. M'VICAR, BRIDE OF YEAR, WHO SEEKS A DIVORCE

The romance of the MacVicars began while they were both employed at a down-town spa.

UNITED SHOE TO FIGHT TO FINISH

What is taken as a semi-official statement from the United Shoe Machinery Company, that it will fight to a finish the government suit to dissolve the corporation, was published by the Boston News Bureau to-day as follows:

"Officials of the United Shoe Machinery Company regard the suit of the government to dissolve the company as practically a repetition of the suit already pending for alleged violation of the Sherman law; in other words, another way has been taken by the government seeking to accomplish the same result.

"The company has already stated its position to the first suit, namely, that it is not operating in violation of the law, which answer of course applies to the petition just filed by the government to dissolve the corporation.

"In brief, it is to be a fight to the finish between the government and the company as to the interpretation of the Sherman law with relation to the leasing of patented shoe machines, as the directors have taken no action toward changing the present form of leases to meet the objections of the government."

INVESTIGATE 'MONEY TRUST'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The House took the trail of the "Money Trust" to-day when the Rules Committee began hearings in the Lindbergh resolution calling for an investigation of midern high finance.

Representative Lindbergh, a Republican insurgent, appeared before the committee in support of his charge that the Money Trust is the most pernicious of all trusts.

The Rules Committee is thought to favor a report on the resolution and Mr. Lindbergh says he has sufficient votes in the House to adopt it and to secure a drastic inquiry into Wall street methods.

The Minnesota member made sweeping charges against the "Money Trust" to-day. He declared that a Congressional investigation would show that the finances of the entire country are dictated practically by a little coterie in Wall Street; that the banks, railroads and insurance companies are so entwined that those behind the "Money Trust" can create a panic at any time. Some of the most powerful banks in the country, he declared, are under the thumbs of a few men in Wall Street.

Representative Lindbergh is opposed to the Aldrich plan of a Central Reserve Association. He believes that a reserve bank fund would put all the more power in the hands of the "Money Trust." An investigation of this trust, declared Mr. Lindbergh, would bring forth more sensations than any inquiry every attempted by the House.

JUDGE GRANTS TRIAL DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Justice Blackmar in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, has ruled that a husband who takes his wife to live with his parents is not guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The decision came at the close of the close of the hearing of the suit for separation brought by Mrs. Mary L. F. Patten against U. Robert Patten, Jr., who, through his political activity, has won the sobriquet of "Mayor of Flatbush."

Justice Blackmar ordered what might be termed a "trial separation" of the couple. He ruled that the husband and wife should live apart for a year, the husband paying $20 a week alimony to his wife. If there is a reconciliation within that time he will set aside the judgment.

Mrs. Patten objected living with her husband's parents, and also alleged that her husband did not properly provide for her.

"Mrs. Patten knew when she married the defendant that he intended to take her to his mother's home," said Patten's lawyer.

"That is so," admitted Justice Blackmar, "but she had a right to expect that he would some time give her a home of her own. No house is big enough for two families. I want to say right now that there is nothing in the plaintiff's claim that she was treated in a cruel and inhuman manner."

SANTA RUSHES GIANT LINER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Santa Claus was at the helm with Captain Charles when the big liner Lusitania came racing into port to-day, laden with Christmas presents from foreign climes. The liner arrived in time to make her pier at 6 a. m.

Straigatway the crew began hurrying about while hundreds of men tugged and pulled at her cargo and a small army of customs officials attended to the passengers.

All of this because the Lusitania in order to get back to England in time with the supply of Christmas presents must discharge her cargo, take on a new one, with provisions and ice, and start out again by to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The customs authorities, as well as the health officers at Quarantine, aided the Lusitania in getting into her dock without delay.

On her way over the Lusitania battled against a strong gale. She made good time, however, spanning the Atlantic in 4 days 20 hours 30 minutes. She brought with her 416 first cabin passengers, 223 second cabin and 568 third cabin passengers, and carried 4,350 bags of mail and 400 packages of parcels post.

SEALS ON ALL OIL TRUST MAIL

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The Standard Oil Company, beginning to-day, will use Red Cross seals on all mail matter going out from the headquarters at No. 26 Broadway. John D. Rockefeller purchased $500 worth of the stamps from New York Tuberculosis committee to-day and gave instructions that they be used on all the mail of the company, as well as upon his private letters.

How to Treat Pimples

It is really remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently relieved in a few days. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin soft and smooth. Pimples are a disease of the skin, and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these disfiguring blemishes because it is applied direct to the trouble. It is an antiseptic and prevents infection from disease germs. Cadum should be immediately applied to a pimple, scratch, sore or wound, as neglect of these small troubles sometimes proves serious. At all druggists', 10c and 25c per box.

ROOSEVELT ON CRIMES OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Denouncing the "apologists" of the McNamaras as "mere inciters to murder and preachers of applied anarchy," former President Theodore Roosevelt, in an editorial published in the current issue of The Outlook, declared:

"The murders committed by men like the McNamaras, although nominally in the interest of organized labor, differ not one whit in moral culpability from those committed by the Black Hand, or by any band of mere cutthroats, and are fraught with infinitely heavier menace to society."

The editorial is under the heading, "Murder Is Murder." In it the ex-President declares that all criminals, whether capitalists or laborers, should be punished as their crimes demand, and that their associates—fellow-capitalists or fellow-laborers—should not attempt to justify the acts.

Colonel Roosevelt proclaims his belief in the American workingman and in organized labor, but he urges the wageworkers to see that their leaders stand for honesty and obedience to the law, and to "set their faces like flint against any effort to identify the cause of organized labor, directly or indirectly, with any movement which in any shape or way benefits by commission of crimes of lawless and murderous violence."

The article, which is brief but forceful, says:

"Not only laboring men, but business men, capitalists, have at times shown the worst form of class consciousness—that of sinister and brutal class selfishness in standing by criminals simply because they were of their own class. This has been done by capitalists in the case of capitalists who have been guilty of brazen corruption, and by laborers in the case of labor leaders who have been guilty of murderous violence. The two offenses stand on a par from the standpoint of damage to the community.

"In San Francisco in one municipal contest the capitalists who desired to be free from all check on corruption and the labor leaders who desired to be free from all check on lawless violence struck hands and elected their ticket; and this proved in the end to be a lasting misfortune to San Francisco, to the cause of honest business and to the cause of honest labor.

"Since the startling outcome of the McNamara trial certain apologists of these men have made themselves conspicuous by asserting that these depraved criminals, who have on their seared souls the murder of so many innocent persons—all of them laboring people, by the way—are 'victims,' or at worst 'fanatics,' who should receive sympathy because they were acting in what they regarded as a 'war' on behalf of their class. The plea is monstrous in its folly and its wickedness. It is precisely the kind of plea sometimes advanced on behalf of a crooked man of great wealth caught bribing a Legislature—that he has to do it to protect his business.

"The labor leaders who by their loud championship of the McNamaras—as previously of Moyer and Haywood—have succeeded in identifying them with the cause of labor in the eyes of the public have rendered an evil service to that cause.

"Mr. Debs and the extremists of his type among the so-called political Socialists—I say so-called because Debs and his followers of the Emma Goldman kind are not Socialists at all in any true sense of the word, but mere inciters to murder and preachers of applied anarchy—and the labor leaders affiliated with them, have always boasted of the part they played in the trial of Moyer and Haywood; and in this case they repeated their familiar tactics, and held mass-meetings and scattered broadcast papers and addresses in which they furiously denounced the effort to bring wrong-doers to justice, and sought to arouse every evil class instinct against all who upheld the cause of law or sought to put a stop to assassination and murderous violence.

"It is worth nothing that since McNamara confessed his guilt Mr. Moyer, the head of what purports to be a labor organization, is reported in the press as commenting upon it, not by denouncing McNamara for having committed the murder, but by denouncing him for having confessed it! Such denunciation is significant.

"Murder is murder, and the foolish sentimentalists or sinister wrongdoers who try to apologize for it as an 'incident of labor warfare' are not only morally culpable but are enemies of the American people, and, above all, are enemies of American wage-workers.

"I believe with all my heart in the American workingmen; I believe with all my heart in organized labor, for labor must be organized in order to protect and secure its rights; and therefore with all my strength I urge my fellow-citizens, the American men and women who earn their livelihood as wage-earners, to see that their leaders stand for honesty and obedience to the law, and to set their faces like flint against any effort to identify the cause of organized labor, directly or indirectly with any movement which in any shape or way benefits by the commission of crimes of lawless and murderous violence."

ONE TOMBSTONE A SHIP'S CARGO

As strange a cargo as ever has left Boston Harbor now rests aboard the British packet Otis Miller, ready to leave for Parrsboro, N. S. It is a solitary tombstone, designed by a local sculptor and intended to mark the last resting place of a relative of Captain Morrison, master of the schooner.

A friend of one of the crew rowed out to the packet yesterday. The sailors were below, and the visitor walked around the craft, looking it over. He chanced to see the tombstone, and made quick retreat to his boat, thinking it was a hoodoo.

The stone is not classed as cargo by the customs officers because it is the property of Captain Morrison.

GEORGE GOULD BUYS A CASTLE

LONDON, Dec. 15.—George J. Gould has bought Castle Menzes, near Pethshire, Scotland, a beautiful country place with several thousand surrounding acres of woodlands. The American millionaire, father-in-law of Lord Decies, intends to establish himself in ducal state, like that of Andrew Carnegie, the Laird of Skibo.

The country folk are greatly interested in the coming of this popular American financier, and eagerly await the improvements he is expected to make in this estate. Lord and Lady Decies will spend much time here with the Goulds next season.

When the facts of the purchase became known, it was related that Mr. Gould would retain his permanent home in America, but he intended to spend several months each year surrounded by his family at his highland place. It is said the arrangements for obtaining this estate were carried on through Lord Decies.

From an authoritative source the AMERICAN was informed last night that Mr. Gould has no intention of establishing himself as a Scottish lord of the Manor. A close friend said Mr. Gould enjoyed a recent shooting season in Scotland very much, and that no surprise would follow among his friends if it were announced that he might make other trips hunting in Scotland, but that while he may have leased some place for hunting, he has made no purchase.

Those intimately associated with Mr. Gould in recent months, however, frequently have expressed the belief that he was preparing to retire from all active business life.

Last July it was reported he had expressed a longing to lead the quiet life of an English country gentleman, and that before another year elapsed, the head of the house of Gould would retire with his family from New York to some delightful spot in rural England where he might emulate the example of the Laird of Skibo.

It has not been a year since George J. Gould stepped down from the presidency of the great Missouri Pacific Railway system, one of the stormiest posts in the battle of finance. With that step downward from the pinnacle of active business, where he engaged in many spirited financial skirmishes, Mr. Gould has seemed to gradually relinquish more and more the

DREXEL DENIES DIVORCE RUMOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Anthony J. Drexel, who arrived here on the Oceanic, to-day denied rumors that Mrs. Drexel was about to begin an action for divorce or separation.

"If Mrs. Drexel contemplates any such action, I have not heard of it," he said. "Surely I would know of it if it were in progress."

He said he would remain here only a short time and would join his family in London for the holidays. Mrs. Drexel will be there.

"I should have been here to go over with her," said Mr. Drexel, "if it had not been for the sudden illness of my son, J. Armstrong Drexel.

with his family at No. 33 Smith street, Roxbury. He was employed as a teamster by Nagel & Ball, contractors at No. 27 ing through Bynner street about 2:30 Wednesday afternoon he fell from his wagon to the street. Persons who went to his assistance found him unconscious. He was sent to the City Hospital, but died before arriving there and his body was sent to the City Hospital morgue.
Lawrence avenue, Roxbury. While driv-

The police paid no further attention to the case until Medical Examiner Leary reported at the Roxbury Crossing station Brehm had been murdered and told of the finding of the bullet. It is supposed Bream was shot as he rode on the seat of the wagon. Nobody could be found who had heard a shot just previous to the time when he fell from the wagon, nor has anyone been found who saw the murderer running away from the scene.

The bullet is said to have passed through Brehm's left arm and penetrated the abdomen. An internal hemorrhage followed, which in part would account for the wound not being discovered when Brehm was found. The fact that the bullet passed through the arm before entering the body established the murder theory, as it would have been practically an impossibility, judging from the course of the bullet, for Brehm to have shot himself, and no weapon was found in the wagon.

Whoever fired the shot was on the same level with Brehm, and the police are of the opinion the assailant may even have been riding on the wagon with the teamster when the fatal shot was fired. Efforts are being made to-day to trace Brehm's movements, previous to the shooting on Wednesday, in the hope some clue may be obtained which will disclose the identity of the murderer.

The neighborhood in which the shooting is supposed to have taken place is a residential one, populated by well-to-do people, and the fact that nobody heard the shot is puzzling to the police. The assassin may have quarreled with Brehm at some time, and knowing the teamster was to pass that certain point during the afternoon may have remained in hiding and fired upon him as he drove by.

FLAYS GIRLS IN STOKES CASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Assistant District Attorney Buckner began summing up for the prosecution to-day when the trial of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, charged with shooting W. E. D. Stokes, was resumed. He arraigned the two defendants with vigor.

Judge Marcus is expected to charge the jury late this afternoon and it is possible the two young women may know their fate late to-night.

The millionaire, who now lies critically ill, was denounced by the defendant's counsel in two final pleas for the show girls' acquittal. Renewed motions to have the cross-examination of Mr. Stokes, which was interrupted by his illness, stricken out on the ground that the defence had had no opportunity to clear up certain points needed to complete its case were denied, however.

HEADACHE TREATED EXTERNALLY

A Recent Discovery Stops Headache In One Minute by the Watch.

A recent discovery enables physicians to prescribe a harmless external application that almost instantaneously stops headache without taking into the system any of the harmful and dangerous drugs and powders that have been so indiscriminately used for the treatment of headaches and neuralgia.

If you suffer from headaches "the morning after," or from any cause whatever, go to some first-class drug store, such as Riker-Jaynes Drug Co., and ask for a half-ounce of yellow hollick (sufficient to stop a dozen headaches). Apply to the [illegible] and temples and back of the ears with a small brush which the druggist will supply free with the hollick and your headache will be gone in not more than one minute. The druggist won't charge more than 25 cents. A good plan is to carry it with you always.

HURRY UP! BROWN BREAD CONTEST ENDS TO-NIGHT!

The AMERICAN'S famous Brown Bread Contest closes at midnight to-night. No more recipes will be considered after that hour.

The result of the contest will be announced in the next Sunday AMERICAN, December 17. The names of the winners of the $5 first prize and the winners of the five remaining prizes of $1 each will be told. The winning recipes will also be printed.

The AMERICAN has secured a Board of Judges for this Contest that cannot be excelled. There are two women on the board. One is Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, prima donna in grand opera and past mistress of cooking in private life. The Tetrazzini cooking recipes have astonished many people, who could not believe that a grand opera star knew so much about a gas range and how to use it.

The other woman on the board is Miss Mary E. MacDermaid. She is cooking teacher in the Schol of Domestic Science, connected with the Boston Y. W. C. A. She is, of course, an expert on cuisine.

Wiley on the Board.

In order that the men who eat brown bread may be represented in the board, there are three masculine judges. One is Dr. Herbert W. Wiley, the "Pure Food" Wiley of international fame. Dr. Wiley's approval of any recipe will be taken as a guaranty of its wholesomeness. The other men on the board are Paul Muckensturm and A. M. Grant, chefs. They are men who have to cook to suit critical tastes. They represent the actual business end of the cooking game.

This is a formidable board of cooking experts to assemble for judging brown bread alone. But the AMERICAN wished to get a judgment which cannot be disputed.

This brown bread contest grew to be one of the biggest things that Boston has known in connection with cooking. It started by a St. Louis woman writing the AMERICAN for an official recipe for mixing and baking Boston brown bread. The AMERICAN appealed to the housewives of New England, asking them to send recipes. To stimulate interest the AMERICAN offered six prizes, $5 for the best recipe and $1 each for the five next best.

Recipes came in by the thousand. The Brown Bread Editor has been fairly swamped with recipes enough to make a batch of brown bread as big as the earth.

Before Christmas arrives it is desirable to settle the brown bread question. So the result will be announced in the next Sunday AMERICAN, December 17. Get the Sunday AMERICAN to see who wins the prizes and what the winning recipes are.

Some of the Latest Recipes.

Samples of latest recipes sent in are:

GIVE AUTO STORY IN FILM LECTURE

By J. C. KERRISON.

The motion picture lecture which was given by the Studebaker Corporation in Blackwell hall at No. 200 Huntington avenue, Monday evening, was so well attended that it has been decided to give a second lecture at the same hall to-night.

The local branch of the Studebaker Corporation at No. 899 Boylston street is distributing invitations to those interested in the wonderful plants that are able to produce 50,000 automobiles in a season.

The entertainment is in charge of W. H. Weingar. Nearly two miles of motion picture film are used to show the workings of the largest motor car plant in the world, covering the complete manufacture of an automobile from the pig iron and raw material to the finished car. Mr. Weingar has exhibited the pictures in nearly all the technical schools in the East. They are pronounced by experts to be the finest ever shown of a great manufacturing plant in operation.

A Married Woman's Right to Rule

"It is cruel to say it, but only the woman who takes care to preserve her youthful charm has a right to rule her husband's heart. She should never neglect her hair or complexion.

"The hair can be kept light and fluffy and beautifully lustrous by dry shampooing. Mix four ounces of therox with four ounces of powdered orris root or four ounces of cornmeal, whichever you prefer. Sprinkle on the head and brush through the hair.

"To keep the skin soft and lovely, and prevent the growth of hair gently massage the face, neck and arms daily with a solution made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in eight ounces of witch hazel. This is better than powder.

Every Member of the Household
Is Deeply Interested in this Christmas Offer
New Talking Machine actually secures results hitherto possible only in instruments costing $150 and $200

Our Great Special Xmas Offer

For $59—This beautiful machine with 24 latest and best selections included.

We are Positive that this Great Value can Never Again be Secured! Make Your Selections Right Away—Pay Later

A NEW Talking Machine of latest hornless type, which produces in every way the results obtained heretofore only in instruments that cost $150 or $200, has now been developed!

Six hundred of these machines will be sold in Boston before Christmas.

In an undertaking of this magnitude many additional advantages accrue from the extraordinary low price can be offered to each buyer.

Twelve superb records, among them selections like the famous Rigoletto Quartet, and also the Lucia Sextet, which two records alone many talking machine devotees have had to pay $13, will be included with each machine sold. Or buyer's own selection of records will be supplied.

This wonderful new talking machine may be purchased on terms of $10 cash and $5 a month.

The machine and the records will be sent on three days' free trial.

An unconditional guarantee as to material and workmanship accompanies each instrument sold, the guarantee being signed by the manufacturers and countersigned by us.

The instrument is furnished in very choice mahogany case, and also in quarter-sawed oak or fumed oak.

The finest selected woods are used in the construction of the cases and the finish is as perfect as found upon the most expensive pianos.

Needless to reiterate, this hornless talking machine is simply perfect in tone and quality.

The instrument is equipped with largest size turntable, and the very best thoroughly noiseless triple-spring motor. It will play three records with one winding, and has a new regulating device whereby the music can be rendered at exact tempo—positively true to pitch.

The machine has a new concert sound reproducer which eliminates the hitherto objectionable rasping noise of needles. A clear, thoroughly natural tone is produced such as has never hitherto been obtained in any instrument costing less than $150 or $200.

In this machine the concealed horn is built separately from the motor, which permits the tone to come forth without any interference. The soundboards in this machine are carefully selected and so placed as to reproduce a tone absolutely lifelike. Modulating doors have been provided whereby the tone volume can be definitely regulated and reduced or augmented at will.

The price is, as stated, $59; cash payments of $10 cash and $5 a month. This includes free the big selection of records stated in the foregoing.

The instruments are now on sale at

PERSIA WANTS RUSSIAN WAR

TEHERAN, Dec. 15.—Dangerous anti-Russian and anti-British demonstrations took place here to-day, and quiet was restored only after a squadron of Persian Cossacks cleared the streets with their swords. The people are demanding war against Russia.

W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general, whose presence brought about the international predicament, declared to-day that he has no intention of leaving the Persian portfolio unless his contract is abrogated by the national council.

Report from Kasbin, whose 4,000 Russian Cossacks have taken possession of the city, state that the situation is critical. The Persians who have been ejected from their homes are suffering from the cold. Many have taken refuge in mosques. Thousands of private homes have been forcibly formed into barracks by the Russians.

WOMEN PLAY IN MALE ROLES

Chelsea people are much interested in the performance of "Monsieur Beaucaire," to be given at Gordon's Theatre Tuesday evening by members of the Chelsea Woman's Club. This is the first show given by the club for several years, and the members have been rehearsing daily for some weeks.

The characters, including the male ones, will be portrayed by prominent women of the city, who have been under the instruction of Miss Hazel MacKaye, daughter of Steele MacKaye, playwright and sister of Percy MacKaye, the poet.

The parts were assigned by Miss MacKaye and the cast includes several favorites in the productions of the club in former years.

The title role will be taken by Mrs. Grace L. Hixon and that of Lady Mary Carlisle has been assigned to Miss Elsie Martin. Others to assist in the production are: Mrs. Alice McConathy, Mrs. Doorthy B. Morrill, Mrs. Angie A. Fracker, Mrs. Eloise H. Moon, Miss Marion L. Davis, Mrs. Ethel Caldwell, Mrs. Jeanette J. Black, Mrs. Eva Hewitt Parker, Mrs. Lizzie Willard, Miss M. Abbie Davis, Mrs. Theodore Spencer, Mrs. Fannie B. Endicott, Miss Mabel M. Hoyt, Miss Hazel Knowlton, Mrs. Jeanette C. Wyeth, Mrs. Grace L. Carr, Miss Florence E. Reed, Mrs. Effie M. Remick and Mrs. Kate C. Achorn.

DAMAGE OF $15,000 AT HOLYOKE FIRE

HOLYOKE, Dec. 15.—Fire in the Woman's Shop at No. 353 High street, necessitated a second alarm and caused a loss of $15,000. The stock of suits and furs was ruined by fire and water, and the two stories above also suffered seriously from water. The blaze started in the rear of the ground floor and made rapid headway before discovered.

MRS. RANKIN, ACTRESS, DEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Mrs. Arthur McKee Rankin, the Kitty Blanchard of those who remember the old Union Square Theatre, was found dead by her husband in the bathroom of her apartments at the Hotel Belleclaire last night.

Dr. J. W. Gibbs, who lives in the hotel and who was called by Mr. Rankin, the actor-manager, said that Mrs. Rankin's death was probably due to cerebral hemorrhage. She had been stricken while preparing to take a bath and had fallen into the tub, which was partly filled with water.

Mr. Rankin, who has been out of town, had returned only a short time before his wife's death. He and his wife separated about twenty-five years ago, but had come together recently.

Native of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Rankin was born in Philadelphia in 1847. Her father, Loring Blanchard, who died when she was four years old, was a professor of mathematics at Bowdoin College and an inventor who did much to perfect the rubber gum formerly used in dentistry.

Her first appearance on the stage was made when she was ten years old in Philadelphia as a dancer. In 1863 she made her first attempt at acting, appearing in the role of Angelica in a play called "The Secret." She went from there to Boston to join a stock company, and it was there that she met Arthur McKee Rankin, who was a member of the company that then included E. L. Davenport, his daughter Fanny and James Lewis.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Rankin played in California for a season, returning to Boston to appear at the Globe. In 1874 Rankin and his wife, who always appeared at Kitty Blanchard, were playing at the Union Square Theatre, and it was there Mrs. Rankin created the part of Henriette in "The Two Orphans." Other plays in which the Rankins figured were "The Dantes," and "'49."

Forced to Leave Stage.

The younger generation of theatregoers remember Mrs. Rankin's laughable Mrs. Brown, the boarding house keeper in "The Girl and the Judge," in which Annie Russell played. While playing with Mrs. Bloodgood in "The Girl with the Green Eyes," Mrs. Rankin, whose health had been failing for some time, was forced to give up and leave the stage. She was never able to return.

Mrs. Rankin is survived by her husband and two daughters, Gladys, who is the wife of Sydney Drew, and Phyllis, who off the stage is Mrs. Harry Davenport.

SAYS LINERS CARRY INSUFFICIENT CREWS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—William H. Frasier, secretary of the International Seaman's Union of Boston, startled the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries by saying that on a majority of the passenger-carrying ships on the Atlantic Coast there were not enough of the crew to man the lifeboats. He said most of the ships carry only boats enough for seventy-five per cent. of their passenger-carrying capacity. The witness said that in all of his experience he never saw a boat drill at sea where the lifeboats were swung out on the davits. Mr. Frasier also declared that the Slocum disaster was due to an insufficient crew.

NEW YORK FAMILY TO SHARE $100,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The dream of her life has been realized by Mrs. Henrietta Foster of No. 160 Palisade avenue, Yonkers. She has received word from Washington that she and her four children are to receive $100,000 or more as sharers in the Alsop claim against Chili, which was settled last July. The Fosters are poor, and the news of their good fortune dazed them at first.

This Lotion Will Improve Complexions

"Few women realize what a great aid to beauty a plain spurmax lotion is," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the San Francisco Record. This is easily prepared — merely dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint hot water and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. If witch-hazel is used it will dry quicker when applied.

"Employing this lotion instead of powder rids the skin of pimples, blackheads and oiliness and gives a gentility and refinement to the complexion obtainable no other way. Aside from making the skin soft and velvety, and of exquisite texture, the spurmax lotion is invisible when on and does not rub or blow off."

KING'S ILLNESS ALARMS WIFE

Mrs. Cardenio F. King, who is bringing every possible influence to bear to secure favorable action on the petition for a pardon for her husband, the former financial agent, declared to-day that, according to a report which Dr. Maurice Richardson has made, King's only hope for life lies in immediate release.

The prisoner, who was removed from the State Prison at Charlestown to the State Hospital at Bridgewater some weeks ago, has just suffered a severe relapse. At present he is confined to his bed, and grave concern is felt for his condition.

The examination of King was made at Bridgewater a few days ago by Dr. Richardson, whose services were sought as the best informed man on King's particular complaint.

Mrs. King had hoped that an operation might be resorted to at Bridgewater to save King's life. This, Dr. Richardson found, is impossible.

"Dr. Richardson told us everything depended upon getting Mr. King out of prison into a Boston hospital, where he would stand a small chance of recovery," Mrs. King said.

Dr. Richardson's report was made to Attorney Herbert Parker, who has since sent it to the State House.

ALDRICH PLANS NEW WEDDING

NEWPORT, Dec. 15.—Russell Aldrich, nephew of former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, and his bride, formerly Miss Mildred Blanchard, the Lynn shoe factory girl, are planning to lease a flat in Lynn and remain there until Aldrich completes his experience with the General Electric Company.

Young Aldrich announced that they will go through another marriage ceremony, this time by a priest, as both are Catholics.

The pretty bride consented to tell reporters about the romance that led to the wedding.

"We had a terrible time trying to think how we could be married without anyone learning about it," she said. "Finally we determined that we would be married anyhow. Rus had written his mother and father about me, so when he asked me to spend Thanksgiving at his house no one thought anything about it. My parents knew we were very friendly and they allowed me to go. So together we went to Newport and it was while we were there that the marriage intentions were filed. Then followed a marriage by a justice of the peace.

"I don't want to tell just where we were married or who married us yet. You see we are both Catholics and we had to sacrifice a lot to be married by a justice. But then, we loved each other so we were willing to do most anything.

Kept Working in Factory.

"You know, we had rather a difficult time with my parents. When I told my father eight days after Thanksgiving he ordered me to leave the house. I suppose he had some cause, for I had written him from Newport telling him Rus was sick and that I could not come home without him, all of which, of course, was a fib. But I left him—I would have left any home for Rus—and we went to his room in the Littlefield block in Lynn.

"We did not have much money and I kept on working in the shoe factory as though nothing had happened. But last night my father repented and forgave us. My mother wept over me, but both she and my father gave us their blessings."

"And I am sure mine will too," the young man interrupted, "for you see I am the youngest son in the family and dad thinks a whole lot of me."

Young Aldrich had but little difficulty in getting his parents to bless the marriage.

Forgiven by Parents.

"We married for love, dad," said the youth in breaking the news. "We are glad, but we want your blessing, and we want to know that you and mother think we did what was best."

Aldrich senior looked stern for a moment. A second later his face was wreathed in smiles, and calling to his wife he told her of the elopement. She did not hesitate a moment. She had a kiss for her son and his wide, and Aldrich senior, in the face of that, could do nothing. Taking his son by the hand he muttered something under his breath and then both forgave and blessed them.

NO ANNEXATION FOR FAIRMOUNT

Fairmount, in resolutions adopted last night at a mass meeting in the Fairmount school, refused the proposal for annexation to Milton. The resolution further protested against the higher rate of taxation which the speakers declared was inevitable and came out flatly for the preservation of the old New England town form of government Fairmount, as a part of Hyde Park, enjoyed until at the last State election Hyde Park and Boston voted to unite their fortunes.

The [illegible] tery of the [illegible] in the receipt of the resolutions was explained when Secretary Heydler of the National League [illegible] by the American League [illegible] was postponed [illegible] National League had no [illegible] the [illegible] adjourned Wednesday night.

With the resolution was a brief note signed by President Johnson saying: "In [illegible] resolution is self-explanatory." That the resolution was "self-explanatory" was [illegible] by most of the National League [illegible].

Secretary Heydler in explaining the fate [illegible] desire to enter into an agreement over [illegible] and [illegible] the table.

The session was [illegible] for the most [illegible] to the consideration of proposed [illegible] to the National Agreement. [illegible] the most [illegible] was a recommendation [illegible] Barney Dreyfuss that the [illegible] in the World's championship [illegible] turn 25 per cent of their [illegible] of the receipts into the treasuries of their respective leagues.

Dreyfuss argued that as it takes eight [illegible] to make a pennant race and as every team contributes its share toward the general result all of them should be remembered in the financial fruits of the series. The resolution follows:

Sixty per cent to Players.

On motion of Mr. Dreyfuss it is the [illegible] of the National League that section 17 of the rules governing the World's Series be amended at paragraph 3, which now provides for the division of receipts as follows:

What about the American League [illegible] from a [illegible] different quarters.

"Oh, that was laid on the table," replied Heydler, "after a little discussion."

To a question as to the reason for laying it on the table Heydler replied:

"Why, the members of this organization [illegible]"

The League also recommended a player limit of twenty-five men during the playing season and thirty-five during the off season.

MILTON HIGH OUT FOR TITLE

The prospect of turning out a fast strong team to represent the Milton High School team this season on the ice is excellent. Edmund Pond, right forward for the past two seasons and one of the best hockey players, has been elected captain, and Kingsley Barnes manager.

Captain Pond and Horace Marchant, who's on last year's team, are the only veterans back this season, but there is a great quantity of new and promising material.

This season will be Milton High's last opportunity to win the championship cup of the Inter-preparatory league upon which it holds two legs, one in the winters of '06-'07 and the other in '07-'08.

Johnson Faces a Beating If He Enters Ring Again

By JACK CONWAY.

"Li'l Artha" Johnson isn't going to return to this fair land of ours for some time to come. He is still enjoying himself over in Gay Paree, contrary to reports received of the "negro prince," who resides in Chicago.

The Galveston black has been passing away his time lately telling people that he has retired from the ring. Of course, some of the interviews which Johnson is credited with were never given. They originated in the thinking apparatus of some too enterprising scribe.

Johnson, however, will never again enter the ring unless it is to take a beating. He is in wretched physical condition. When in perfect condition Johnson weighs about 210 pounds, but he now tips the beam close to 300. This means that his ring star has set.

Johnson Will Not Train.

Boxers often get overweight but take off the superfluous flesh after a couple of weeks of stiff training. This would be next to impossible in Johnson's case. In the first place he is burdened down with a soft, flabby kind of fat which is hard to work off. In the second, John Arthur Johnson isn't the man to spend weeks in the training camp in order to get ready for a bout.

When "Li'l Artha" was preparing for the memorable Reno fiasco he did very little hard work. He spent the greater part of his time amusing the numerous visitors—and they were not all law-abiding citizens, either—who called at his camp.

There are many critics who claim that Johnson will again don ring togs when his finances become low. And they may be right. There is one thing certain, however. Johnson will be defeated by the first good man he meets. The burly negro is getting along in years. He says that he will be thirty-four next March, but there are many people who believe that he is thirty-seven.

Johnson isn't as rich as most people believe. He made a big bunch of kale in his fight with Jeffries and he also cleaned up quite a sum of money in theatrical engagements, but he has also spent his earnings recklessly. His good fortune turned his head. His craze for automobiles and fine clothes have cost him a small-sized fortune.

With Johnson on the shelf, boxing fans are looking forward to the Langford-McVey fight which takes place in Australia on Christmas Day. The bout is scheduled to go twenty rounds and if Johnson sticks to his retirement the winner be recognized as the heavyweight champion of the world. McVey and Langford are without doubt two of the best heavyweights in the world. Joe Jeanette will undoubtedly challenge the winner of the mill, as he has defeated McVey.

Langford rules a favorite. The Tar Baby met McVey in Paris last Winter and was awarded a draw. The decision, however, is said to have been a poor one.

Langford is one of the greatest men of his weight the game has ever produced. When in condition, he weighs about 178 pounds. He is a terrific puncher and a wonderful boxer. If Langford weighed 200 pounds, he would be able to defeat Johnson even though the "negro prince" was in superb condition. Langford is almost as clever as Johnson was in his prime and packs a wallop which caused Johnson a great deal of bother over in Chelsea a few years back.

Poor Bunch of "Hopes."

The present bunch of white heavyweights are a joke. There isn't a good one in the bunch. Jim Flynn, who appears to be the best white heavy, is nothing more than a second rater. He has been defeated by about every good man he has ever met.

Al Kaufman is now in the down and out class. He is big and strong but that is about all. Carl Morris, Tom Kennedy, Al Palzer and the rest of the white "hope" brigade are crude just at present. They may develop in time. Porky Flynn, the big boy from Lounsberville, now in Australia, would be able to clean up the bunch in a week and Porky isn't claiming any white "hope" honors either.

A real white "hope" may come down the pike one of these days, but if he doesn't put in an appearance mighty soon fight fans are liable to get impatient.

CLUB TO HOLD DANCE.

A big time is anticipated at the Manhattan Club dance in Bethesda Hall, South Boston, on Monday evening. The committee in charge has done everything to make the time the most successful. Joe Murphy, Phil Sweeney, Frank O'Neil and Frank [illegible] [illegible] of the affair and they have [illegible]. The Manhattan Club is [illegible] organization of the [illegible] district and has [illegible] following. Many prominent men of South Boston are members, and a good crowd should attend.

Notes of the Alleys

Those boys from the Hayward alleys are certainly coming some. They have won the [illegible] points [illegible]. They whitewashed [illegible] McCarthy and got two points from Adams Square.

Sam Greene and Dick [illegible] split the honors at the [illegible] other night. Sam got 345 while Dick [illegible] three pins [illegible]. Greene got [illegible] 115 [illegible] three strings.

[illegible] must have had a bad case of stage fright. Just imagine such men as Coe, [illegible], Millar, Kerrigan and Millen only getting 1362.

The Boylston bunch found it hard picking at Adams Square, winning only one point. The bowling of the Nims brothers was a little bit too much. Old War Horse Brown could not find any spare leaves, so he could not pile up a large score.

Arthur Shaw, the classy little anchor for the Hayward team, is rapidly advancing in his average. At the game against McCarthy, his third string was a dandy, getting 120, and all his spares were hard ones to buy up. The bowling bugs certainly applauded his work.

Walter Lee of the Hayward team got 319 against McCarthy. Walter had his ball working in fine shape and brought up five single pins for spares; Walter says single pins is his specialty.

Have you heard the Hayward bunch of rooters—if not you have missed a lot of fun. When they get going the boys from the Hayward team start getting spares and strikes.

Basketball Notes

The Hyde Park quintet will get its first real test of the season when it tackles the Iowa Club of Harvard at Waverly Hall, Ward 26, to-night. Both fives have been setting a fast pace since the season opened and a hard, interesting game is looked for.

The Wood A. C. of the South End, which has not lost a game in two seasons, is out with a challenge to the strongest 115-pound fives in the State. Manager Joseph J. Lowney, No. 87 Cross street, Medford.

The East Boston team is out for the championship of New England this season and has already defeated Gloucester 32 to 27. The team is made up of all old favorites, including Bill Coady, Fred Corbett, Tim Desmond, Jack Ahern and "Bing" Dearborn. Manager George H. Hoyt, No. 344 Washington street, city.

The North End Union Five still has a few open dates and would like to hear from the fastest teams in the State. They would especially like to book games with Company K of Hingham, Attleboro, Randolph and Brockton. Manager Irving Ruby, No. 20 Parmenter street, city.

The Chelsea Independents would like to book games with high school and prep school teams. The team is represented by former high school stars. Manager A. Puchart, No. 50 Eden street, Chelsea.

The Harvard-Iowa Five, composed of players from the University of Kentucky, Iowa University, Grinnell and Parsons College, is out for a new record on the floor this season. They opened their season against Stoughton Saturday, winning 70 to 17. They are one of the biggest teams playing the game to-day, all being over the six foot mark. The line-up includes Howard, Ranney, Carney, Thomas and Lester. Manager G. H. Hoyt, No. 344 Washington street, city.

The Westwood Five of Boston [illegible] to complete its schedule [illegible] hear from teams at [illegible] and away [illegible]. Some of the best players in the State make up the team. Manager James Fallen, room 43, No. 53 Broad street, city.

The Y. M. C. A. Eagles of Roxbury would like to hear from fast 115-pound teams at or away from home. Half expenses given or taken. Manager Henry Zollinger, No. 1073 Tremont street, Roxbury.

The White Sox of Charlestown is without a game for Saturday night and would like to meet some fast 120-125 pound team. Manager David Curran, No. 47 Mc[illegible] street, Charlestown.

The Brockton Intermediate Five want [illegible] games with teams averaging 110-115 pounds. Games are wanted [illegible]. Manager Russell Mitchell, No. 102 [illegible] street, Brockton.

POTASH AND PERLMUTTER IN THE SUNDAY AMERICAN.

The Potash and Perlmutter ("Abe" and "Mawruss") stories by Montague Glass, the biggest fiction hit of years, are now a regular feature of the Sunday AMERICAN. Don't miss them.

BROOKLYN GYM IN MEET.

ANDOVER, Dec. 15.—Interest is keen among the boys of Phillips Andover Academy over the swimming meet with the Brookline Gymnasium Athletic Association Saturday in the academy's new pool. There will be several races, diving and life-saving contests, an exhibition of water polo between two gymnasium teams and an exhibition of fancy swimming by Instructor Matthew Mann of Brookline.

FITZPATRICK WINS.

In the fifty-first game of the C class amateur billiard tourney at the Elite, Fitzpatrick defeated Cotter, 150 to 130. To-night Black will play Percival.

KID ELBERFELD SOLD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Norman Elberfeld, third baseman of the Washington club, has been sold to Chattanooga, where he will captain the team next year.

QUINCY A. A. WINS GAME.

Quincy A. A. defeated Lynn Y. M. C. A. 54 to 16, in a Greater Boston Basket Ball League game at Quincy. The Quincy second five defeated the Lynn second team 53 to 18.

OUT-OF-TOWN BOWLERS MEET

The most important bowling [illegible] shift to the suburban cities to-night and the fans of that section will [illegible] good work to attract their attention.

The weekly matches of the Suburban League will hold the high honors and it is expected that many hundreds of fans will be on hand to watch the rollers.

Tom Burns's Chelsea Square rollers will be the chief attraction at the Cambridge alleys. Only two points separate the two teams, and both will have to hustle some if they intend to hold their places.

Cambridge will have the advantage, as the Chelsea record breakers will roll away from home. Tom Burns claims that his men are in fine fettle and ready to give the pins another showdown.

The Cambridge team is anxious to get back the lead which they held since the opening of the season and will go after the Chelsea Square tossers tooth and nail. A big crowd will journey over from Sandy Ferguson's town to watch the match.

Another match that is bound to be a hummer will bring together the Revere and Malden rollers at the latter's alleys. Both teams are tied for third place together with Broadway and will have to travel some in order to keep in that position, as Broadway tackles an easy opponent in Woburn.

Everett has a good chance to climb up on the leaders, having for their opponents the Knights, now in the cellar position.

Prospect and Auditorium, tied for fifth position, are not expecting much trouble in handling Square and Crescent.

The Knights of Columbus rollers get together in two matches at the New Boston alleys to-night, Maplewood having Dedham for its opponent while St. Benedict takes the Santa Maria Council.

Maplewood is tied with Allston for first position, but should be able to take at least three out of four points from the Dedham quintet. Santa Maria is picked to take a fall out of St. Benedict, but the latter is sure to cause them plenty of trouble.

In the Suburban K. of C. League the St. John's Council should have little trouble in taking a clean sweep from Belmont, the latter team being pretty well down among the cellar teams.

The other match of this league is carded between Mt. Benedict and Winchester and is sure to cause plenty of excitement.

GRIM IS BEATEN AGAIN.

LAWRENCE, Dec. 15.—Fighting Joe Nelson of Lawrence gave Joe Grim, the [illegible] punching [illegible] a real beating in a twelve-round bout. It was the 378th battle that Grim has fought, and he showed that he was as [illegible] as ever to a knockout. Blows that would have knocked out an ordinary [illegible] even stagger the Philadelphian. Young Donahue of Lawrence [illegible] Harris went eight rounds to a draw. [illegible] Young Stone, Young Baldwin defeated Young Brevat in six rounds and Young Russell defeated Young Henry in two rounds.

GARDNER ELI CAPTAIN.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 15.—The captain of the Yale [illegible] team for next year is [illegible] Gardner, '13, of Washington. [illegible] is a graduate of the [illegible] played on the baseball [illegible] was also the president of [illegible] association there.

WESTMOUNTS TO TACKLE B. A. A.

Boston hockey followers will see one of the best matches of the season to-morrow evening at the Boston Arena when the Westmounts of Montreal clash with the B. A. A. seven. The Canadian team is one of the fastest that has come down to play a local team and expects to run away with the game.

The team comes from the Westmount Amateur A. A., which is noted for the crack hockey players that it has turned out. The club is a big booster of the puck game and attracts much interest throughout Canada. With its regular players in the line-up the seven were able to defeat the best that the provinces could offer. The team came here last season, but was forced to use four "subs" in the line-up and was defeated.

The men on the Westmount team are all big, but speed is their strongest asset. They are known in their home town as the "wood choppers" for the rough way they handle the puck. They play the game in the real Canadian style, always with the puck and fighting every minute for the slightest advantage.

The players have shown up well in the few games played to date. The forwards have been going at a great speed and the defensive players are good. Smeaton, at goal, is one of the best players in Canada and he will give the Boston team a lot of trouble.

With the return of the cold weather, interest is renewed in hockey and many sevens count on taking to the ice next week.

Horse Jottings

The ice racers are anxiously waiting a good snow fall.

James R. Magowan, owner of Mainleaf, has been awarded second slice of the purse in Horse Review Futurity, which has been hanging fire since the meeting at Columbus. The colt fell just inside the flag and the question of awards was a hard one for the officials to decide.

The Russian horsemen are getting the pick of the American speeders. The latest to join the European band are Kinney Lou 2:07¾ and Aquin 2:08.

Columbus may not be among the Grand Circuit cities next season.

Work of rebuilding the Port Huron track, which was destroyed by fire recently, has already begun.

What a lot of [illegible] Jack London has created. J. J. Roberts of Worcester has turned over all the winnings he made while the Worcester Driving Club will return to the Hampden Club of Springfield the two cups won by the "ringer" under the name of Baker.

FOOTBALL GAME AT WELLESLEY

The last football game of the season will be played to-morrow at Wellesley. It was thought that the gridiron season was closed three weeks ago but a class game that is attracting much attention will be played to-morrow on Hunnewell Field between the seniors and juniors and the sophomores and freshmen. The entire school is aroused as to the outcome and, from all indications, the game should prove a very close fight.

Schoolboy Sports

All the schoolboys are praying for good cold weather so that ice strong enough for hockey will form before the Christmas vacation. Many hockey games are scheduled during that week and it will be a big disappointment to many if ice is not on the ponds.

Garand, Pitman, Herb Merrill and Parks will be greatly missed in football at Somerville High next season. All graduate next June. All four players will get into some sport before that time, however, Garand and Merrill being out with the hockey squad and Parks will go out for the baseball.

Work is well under way in the three new lines of sport at Milton High. Principal Curtis is a great advocate of athletics and he has induced the boys to take up indoor baseball, ice baseball and fencing. The boys have taken an active interest in the sports and good teams should be developed.

The track men at Boston Latin are working out in good shape and are prepared for the season to open. The first meet will be on January 12 and that is a long time for the boys to wait. The class games will be held on that date in the gymnasium and the boys are already talking about the outcome.

Winchester High and Reading High clash in a basketball game to-day at Reading. The teams seem to be about evenly matched and Reading should figure in another close game.

Candidates for a hockey team at Beverly High are out, and from all indications a strong team will be developed. The boys have been given work at passing and shooting, and the lack of ice is the only thing that is holding them back. A rink will be built on Lovell's Field and games will be booked with the best schoolboy teams.

Somerville has a long list of players out for the hockey team. This is the first year that the faculty has furnished money for a puck team, and this fact boomed the game a great deal at the school. Several veterans are available and the Red and Blue school should have a fast team.

BIG BASKETBALL GAMES ON CARD

GAMES TO-NIGHT.

St. Mary's vs. Cathedral Y. M. C. A. at St. Mary's Hall.

St. Alphonsus vs. St. Joseph's at St. Alphonsus Hall.

Two good games are carded in the Greater Boston League to-night and it is expected that a large crowd of fans will be on hand to witness both contests. At St. Mary's Hall in the North End the Cathedral Y. M. C. A. meets the St. Mary's five, while the St. Alphonsus and St. Joseph quintets clash at the former's court. The teams are pretty evenly matched and both games are bound to bring out some sensational work.

The St. Mary's five have been traveling in rather [illegible] since the season opened but are confident that they will be able to take the South End players into camp to-night. The other team has yet to meet defeat and hopes to retain its clean slate as it is out for a new record on the floor this season.

The St. Alphonsus five are sure to have their hands full with the St. Josephs team from the West End. They are out to redeem themselves. The popular Roxbury organization has not been up to form but after several hard practice is in fit condition to take a fall out of the West End leaders. The St. Josephs have yet to lose a game and will fight every foot of ground in hope of adding to their win column.

ACADEMY TEAM TO RUN.

WORCESTER, Dec. 15.—Worcester Academy will be represented by a relay team in the interscholastic event at the annual Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, next April. It doesn't look on paper as though Worcester Academy would have anywhere near as strong a team this school year for the relay races as it has had in other years, particularly last year when Phil [illegible] and Jimmy Burke were valuable men in a relay race where each runner did 440 yards. But it is felt on the hill that it is time to break into the running on Franklin Field and that a strong showing great will be lost if the first year does not result in a failure.

ELECT WHITE CAPTAIN.

Leon White has been elected captain of the Quincy High School football team. Captain White has played tackle on the team the last two years. In one of the last games of the season this year he broke an ankle. A reception to the athletes of the school who have won a "Q" will be held to-night in the school hall.

AT 8 o'clock on the morning of April 2[illegible] M. de Ciserat gave the order to halt.

They had reached the Straits of Ormuz. With the aid of the glass they could distinguish the little isle of Massendam to the northwest, having passed which point the straits might be considered crossed.

In giving the order to halt, Ciserat and Sainte Claire approached Severac.

"Oh," he said, "I think it would be well if you took a little rest.

"Following special orders given me which you could not countermand, I must stop here without crossing the straits. When the vessel has crossed which"——

"I know," interrupted Severac. "The ultimatum says, in short, that the first vessel entering the Persian Gulf will be destroyed."

"And it is best that the Cyclone should not deliberately go to destruction," continued De Ciserat, "because you and the electric mirrors are aboard."

"What is going to be done, then?" asked Sainte Claire. It was Severac who replied.

Followed His Finger

"Before giving the order to depart previous to the mobilization at [illegible] the Admiral called for volunteers to cross the straits. More than a hundred commanders replied. They drew lots, and the German cruiser Prinz Friederick was marked for the sacrifice."

Severac rose and pointed to the southeast.

"Here it is, if I am not mistaken!"

With their hearts beating with emotion the two officers followed his finger with the[illegible]

From the hundred vessels lying almost motionless on the water a huge white vessel was beginning to detach itself and to advance under full steam. From her two masts were floating the black, white and red flags of Germany.

"[illegible] the Prinz Heinrich. A magnificent armored cruiser of 8,800 tons with [illegible]

As she drew nearer, glistening under the morning sun, they could hear more distinctly the acclamations and hurrahs rising from the ships between which they passed.

At her maximum speed of twenty knots an hour she passed between the Cyclone and the Swift, which lay opposite one another, [illegible] forth great clouds of black smoke from her smokestacks.

"Bravo!" shouted the crew of the Cyclone with one accord.

"Hurrah! hurrah!" answered the crew of the sacrificial cruiser.

"To sleep, now," said Severac.

Turning to Ciserat he motioned energetically toward the huge cruiser already far in the distance [illegible]

"Commandant, are your instructions forbid following this vessel?"

"On the contrary, Monsieur, they order me to do it. I am to follow at a distance of about 1,000 yards and put about as soon as she sinks."

"[illegible] forward!"

"Forward, Monsieur."

In Wake of Cruiser

In [illegible] of the Swift, which was to [illegible] some manoeuvres as the French torpedo boat the Cyclone set out in the wake of the German cruiser.

The entire crew was on the alert, with loaded torpedo tubes. Ciserate and Sainte Claire stood forward with Severac, who pressed the electric mirror against his breast with his two hands.

The three men were pale and their eyes never left the Prinz Heinrich.

Their orders were to skirt the Isle of Massendam as closely as possible so that some of the survivors of the catastrophe might find refuge upon its reefs. The crew of the German cruiser had been exhorted not to lose their heads a moment, but to listen and observe, so that the survivors might furnish an instructive account of the destruction of their ship. At twenty-two minutes past 10 by the Cyclone's clock, the Prinz Heinrich founded a reef which reared its head to the north of Massendam Isle.

Immediately the Cyclone and the Swift saw the German vessel turn slightly and head west by south, in order to make clear its intention of going straight into the Persian Gulf.

"The line has been crossed," said Ciserat, in a voice unconsciously firm and hard, but in which, nevertheless, there was a trace of emotion.

Sainte Claire had taken out his watch.

"Twenty-four minutes past ten," he said.

ARTICLE NO. 8

Perfumes and Flowers

By GABY DESLYS

DO you [illegible] perfumes? I [illegible] you do [illegible], as we say in French, [illegible] be 'sympathetique.'

I [illegible] adore perfumes. They are everything to me. Medicine, rest, [illegible] stimulants, assuagers of grief, soothers of pain and a constant delight.

In Paris, [illegible] the Rue de La Paix there is a house with a large courtyard, and on the far side of the courtyard you enter a pretty little [illegible] door with [illegible] into the most graceful blue and silver salon. It doesn't [illegible] the least little bit like a shop, but it really is a most exclusive store where perfumes are sold, and where people go to have new perfumes made for them especially. The great chemist who lives above this little shop will combine the most wonderful odors or concoct new ones to suit your taste, and you can buy of him the entire output of one particular perfume that suits your fancy.

I was [illegible] anxious to preserve the odor of some beautiful roses which were sent to me on a cold Winter's day directly from Nice, and I took them to this perfumer. A few days afterward he had made a perfume that was the most exquisite odor of roses I have ever smelled, and just exactly like the roses I had brought him. This special brand of rose perfume is made only for me. But while I love to use only one perfume at a time, and I don't think anyone should use more than one, I soon grow very tired of the same odor, and so I change from roses to violets and then back to frezias or the faint and delightful odor of apple blossoms according to my mood. No one should ever mix perfumes. My old chemist told me that, and the reason is that most perfumes are not made of real flowers but of chemicals. If your perfumes were all distilled from flowers, the odors would blend just as the perfumes in a bouquet do, but with chemicals you never can tell, so I want to warn you, in perfuming your wardrobe especially, not to mix scents.

My perfumes are made up in two different ways, as a liquid and as a sachet. The liquid is used for toilet purposes, and pieces of flannel are dipped into the strong essence and used in various ways among my clothes. In my hats, for instance, under the lining and sometimes in the new toques, forming the entire bandeau, the strongly scented flannel is used. This keeps the hat from exhaling the curious odors of felt or beaver or velvet, and feathers which always are most disagreeable, especially in damp weather. Besides that, it perfumes the hair, which I find quite delightful.

The liquid perfume is used in the bath diluted with spirits of cologne, and sometimes when I am very tired my eyes are bathed with my favorite perfume which I find very restful, and which is said to be an excellent way to erase the slight lines of fatigue or sleeplessness which show around the eyes.

Very strong odors are apt to make one tired, especially if the odor is too sweet, and a heavy perfume is not good for the voice, so that singers usually taboo it. The most delightful perfume is that which is exhaled by a carefully scented wardrobe rather than by a heavy application of scent to the handkerchief, or to some part of the frock. All of my clothes closets are lined with sachets which look like thin satin quilts. Small sachets are sewn to the insides of my petticoats, and wherever I have trimming such as flowers on my frocks, these flowers have the natural odor which is placed in their petals by the means of tiny sachets.

When you are very depressed or tired, try this way of soothing your nerves: Pour a little of your favorite perfume in a small quantity of warm water, saturate a soft linen cloth with it, place this over your face while you lie down in a room where the air is fresh. To me, my favorite perfume is far more intoxicating and exhilarating than champagne, and I believe that it belongs to the art of keeping young, as well as to a woman's personal charm, to have her favorite odor around her.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WIN THE MOTHER FIRST

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I love a certain girl and I know she loves me, but her mother does not seem to care for me. Therefore I cannot call at her house or take her any place. I always take her [illegible] from parties, but we try to keep it a secret from her mother. I have never done anything to offend her mother. Please tell me how I can win the friendship of her mother. She is eighteen; I am nineteen.

UNKNOWN.

IF you want to make friends with the girl's mother, do not deceive her.

The best way is to call upon the girl at her own house and while there make yourself agreeable to her mother.

Women are strange, particularly mothers. The mere fact that this woman feels you are going to take her daughter away from her may be the cause of her ill will. It is hard to give up a child to a man, however fine he be. But if you prove yourself worthy she will ultimately give her permission with a glad heart.

MARRIAGE WILL HELP HIM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady of nineteen and engaged to a young man with whom I am desperately in love. He is making a salary of $60 a month. Do you think that through careful management we can live comfortably on his salary without going in debt?

ANXIOUS READER.

WITH careful management, I should think you could do it. It is much better to marry and work together. You can encourage and stimulate him more effectively if he has you to share his disappointments and achievements.

Married Life the Second Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

In Which There Is Some Moralization on the Subject of Christmas

"SECOND floor! Suits, waists, shoes, millinery, underwear," shouted the elevator man as he flung open the iron door.

Helen, who was in the back of the crowded car, tried vainly to wedge herself out.

"Oh, wait, wait! I want to get off here."

But the door had clanged to, and the elevator shot up to the next floor. Here she managed to struggle out, her hat shoved to one side, and with that generally disarranged feeling that comes from pushing through a crowd.

Hereafter, she told herself, she would walk. It was less wearing than getting in and out of crowded elevators. And now she made her way down the stairs to the shoe department. A pair of quilted satin fur-topped bedroom slippers for Edith, Warren's younger sister, was what she wanted. She had seen them advertised for $1.25.

Warren had said most emphatically that they could not spend as much on presents this year as last. And Helen was now confronted with the very difficult problem of getting a great many presents with a very little money.

A Quick Purchase

All the clerks were busy, but when at last she was waited on, she made her purchases with a swift precision which mildly astonished the salesman, who expected women not to know what they wanted, and to look over the entire stock before they decided.

"I want that slipper" (pointing to a sample pair in the case marked "As advertised, $1.25."), "in black, size 3 A."

The next on her list was a bureau scarf for Aunt Mary. On the first floor was a sale of bureau scarfs—two large tables in the aisle. "$1.49 reduced from $2.00," read the placard over the first. "$1.89 reduced from $3.25," was over the second.

A crowd of eager bargain hunters, as many as could get around the tables, were pawing over and pulling out the piled up scarfs. Every one seemed trying to get at those on the bottom. Why is it that the woman shopper always thinks the best article is underneath? Invariably if an odd lot of goods are thrown on the bargain counter, every woman will ignore those on top and instinctively pick out those beneath.

And now for a moment Helen stood watching these women pushing, shoving, rudely elbowing each other to get at the tables and then pulling out the scarfs from the very bottom of the pile.

As there was only one clerk at each table, it was hopeless to expect to be waited on soon, so Helen passed on to get her bureau scarf at some other store where they were not having a "sale." She might have to pay a few cents more, but the saving of time and temper and wear on clothes would be worth it.

A Subtle Compliment

A little further on was another large table with a sign "Desirable Gifts, Choice—98c." Around this, too, was an eager crowd, for there is always a curious attraction to women in any assortment of articles marked "Choice" for so much. It is a subtle compliment to their judgment, their knowledge of quality and value, which every woman believes she has to an exceptional degree. She is always convinced that if there is one article in the lot of more value than the others she will at once discern it.

Still another table marked "Appropriate gifts, choice—59c," was in the next aisle.

There were innumerable ash trays (did you ever know a man that didn't get at least two every Christmas?), hatpin holders, vases, pin trays, stamp boxes, paper weights and an endless variety of bric-a-brac articles.

And now Helen hurried by this table with its alluring sign of "Choice 59c," firmly resolved that whatever she gave this year would be something really useful—though it was nothing more than a dozen good lead-pencils.

It was after five before she at last left the shops, carrying with her a number of packages, for she had conscientiously heeded the placarded requests to "Please take small packages with you."

Outside it was already quite dark. A surging crowd of homeward bound shoppers with their many packages filled the sidewalks and overflowed into the streets.

The surface cars were packed to the platforms. Helen hurried over to the subway, but here, too, the cars were crowded to suffocation. The force of the crowd carried her in and wedged her up against a cross seat. It was not until they had gone quite a way that she realised she was on the DOWN TOWN side! How could she have made such a mistake!

Helen Is Tired

By the time she had gotten off and crossed over to the other side it was twenty minutes of six. Warren would be home now before she could get there—and he hated to find her out. Her arms ached with the bundles she was carrying and her hair and veil were disarranged, but she had no free hand to fix them.

When she left the car there were still three long blocks to walk. It was piercingly cold, and her hands, already tired with holding the bundles, now grew stiff in their thin kid gloves.

A clock in a drug store window said three minutes of six. Warren would be waiting; she almost ran the rest of the way. As she went up in the elevator the mirror reflected her face, unbecomingly red with the cold. Dropping the packages on the seat, she hastily drew out a pocket powder puff to subdue the offending glow of her nose—she could not bear for Warren to see her like that.

But Warren barely looked up when she entered. He was reading the evening papers, his feet propped on a chair.

"Oh, I'm so sorry to be late! Have you been home long, dear?" stooping over and kissing him.

"Ugh!" drawing back, "your hands are like ice—here, don't touch my neck!"

"Oh, I know they're almost frozen. And I did the stupidest thing! That's what made me so late. I took the DOWN subway!"

"Humph, that's not surprising—you never look where you're going."

But Helen had hurried into her room to throw off her things and then out to the kitchen to see if Delia had everything ready for dinner.

It was after dinner that she brought out the packages and opened them.

He Isn't Interested

"These are what I got for Edith," taking out the fur-topped slippers. "Don't you think they will be nice for her?"

Warren looked up from his paper and gave them a hasty, indifferent glance.

"And this is a wallet for Frank, and here is a hat brush for—why, dear," reproachfully, "you're not even looking!"

"Well, what's the use of my going over all that truck? This whole Christmas business is an infernal nuisance. I suppose from now on I'll hear nothing else. If I had my way I wouldn't give a blamed thing to anybody—and I'd be mighty well pleased not to get anything, either."

"Oh, dear, don't say that—you wouldn't do away with the Christmas spirit?"

"Christmas spirit?" he scoffed. "There's a lot of Christmas spirit in giving somebody something they don't want and then begrudging it, too! By George, how many presents do you suppose would be given if everybody didn't feel it was expected and that they would get something in return? The whole darn thing is a mutual hold-up game in which nobody gets what he wants!"

"Jolly!" murmured Bertie. "But—er—you really shouldn't say 'turkeeze,' dear boy. Awfully bad form, you know. It's 'turkaise.'"

Then the argument grew fierce.

They argued for an hour. Then another hour. And at last they decided to submit the matter to arbitration.

"We'll go round to the jeweller's and ask him," Bertie suggested. And they went.

"Which is it?" they asked—"'turkeeze,' or 'turkaise'?"

Critically the jeweler stared at the glittering pin that reposed in the startling tie. Then slowly and thoughtfully he delivered his verdict.

"It's neither, gentlemen. The correct pronunciation in this case is—GLASS!"

HANG ON DARLING ROSAMOND, I'LL SAVE YOU, WE HAVE FOILED THE CUR DESMOND
CURSES! THE MAGNET HAS ATTRACTED THE STEEL BAYONET AND PROUD ROSAMOND ESCAPES TO HER LOVER CLAUDE!
THIS STEEL BAYONET WILL KEEP ME UP AND FOIL DESMOND
CURSES! THE MAGNET IS CHANGING THE DIRECTION OF THE BULLETS INTENDED FOR ROSAMOND
ROSAMOND WE CAN BE HAPPY NOW
CLAUDE MY HERO
I GOTTA GIT AWAY FROM THIS DESERT PRISON SOON. WONDER WHAT ME OLD LEADER DESMOND IS DOIN'?
THE MAGNET HAS ATTRACTED THE STEEL BALL AND CHAIN
SEND HER DOWN CLAUDE ECLAIRE, I'M DESMOND'S OLD PAL, HA, HA!
HORRORS! WE PICKED UP AN ENEMY, HORRORS!
HA, HA, MY OLD PAL "PUEBLO RED" IN CHARGE OF THE LOVERS NOW FOR REVENGE
SOON AS I CUT THE ROPE YOUR LOVER WILL BE DRAWN TO THE MAGNET BY THE STEEL BAND AROUND HIS WAIST
FAREWELL ROSAMOND, I DEFY YOU DESMOND
HERSHFIELD

Whether or not woman is man's equal in intelligence, here is sufficient proof that she is his equal in courage: Rosamond makes a daring trip through the air, the bayonet on the rifle to which she clings being attracted by the powerful magnet of the Italian scouting airship. Her bravery brings Rosamond once again to the side of her lover.

But Desmond, cruel and crafty, sooner than see Rosamond again with Claude, determines to kill her and raises his revolver. Dead shot though he is, the first bullet goes astray and he fires another. That also goes wide, and the villain discovers that the magnet is attracting his steel-jacketed bullets.

Far below the airship a convict is at work making little rocks out of big ones—a very unpleasant task, by the way—a fact which should be kept in mind by those who contemplate wrongdoing. Needless to say, the convict is a friend of that notorious villain, Desperate Desmond.

Think of the convict's surprise as he suddenly shoots into the air feet first! The ball and chain which he wears has been attracted by the powerful magnet and in its flight upward takes the prisoner along with it. A dangerous trip, but anything to escape captivity, says the jailbird.

Naturally, when the convict gets aboard the airship he takes command of it away from Claude Eclaire, who is on the side of the right. And just as naturally he wants the airship taken down to that master villain, Desmond. Consequently the lovers are in a dangerous position, for the convict will stop at nothing, and neither will D. D.

"I'm the boy," cries Desperate Desmond, "and Claude will soon look like a porcupine." From the picture above you can see the fiendish plan that has been made to end the gallant career of Claude Eclaire, hero. However, there's many a slip 'twixt the steel and the magnet, and to-morrow's pictures may show unexpected developments.

CATARRH
The Enemy of Mankind

If Not Stopped Will Weaken the Membrane and Lead to More Serious Diseases.

Stomach Dosing Won't End It

Catarrh is a common disease in nearly every State in the Union.

It is also a vile and disgusting disease because its revolting symptoms cannot be hidden.

Many people despair of ever getting rid of catarrh, but if they will go about it in earnest they can stop the discharge in a few days, banish snuffles, hawking and spitting in a few more days.

To end the misery and humiliation of catarrh, breathe HYOMEI. Get a complete outfit to-day and see how quickly catarrh can be conquered if you will only try.

A HYOMEI outfit (bottle of HYOMEI and hard rubber inhaler) costs $1.00. Pour a few drops into the inhaler and breathe it; that's all you have to do. Breathe it five or six times a day and watch the symptoms of catarrh disappear one by one. HYOMEI is guaranteed for catarrh, coughs, colds, sore throat and asthma. For sale by druggists everywhere. Extra bottles if needed 50 cents. Mail orders filled by Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Romance Founded On a Deep Mystery

TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT

PART TWO—(Continued)

ALL this had utterly blotted out from her memory that curious fleeting glimpse of a strange predatory soul that for a moment had seemed to peer from Mrs. Bertram's dark eyes. She carried with her only the most pleasant, the most uplifting remembrances back to the little white house in Westminster that appeared to her of a sudden as she entered it painfully austere, old fashioned and uninviting.

Tring came out into the hall to greet her. Behind him through the open door of the bookroom she saw a glimpse of white, fire-bathed walls and the soft glow of a shaded lamp.

"You look delightfully comfortable in there," she said and waited.

"Won't you come in and rest before you go up stairs?" he said. "Have you been fed adequately?"

"More than adequately." She followed him into the room, glancing round it with a half-envious approval.

"I love your room. You have the art of making yourself comfortable," she said. "I think you must have been a cat in your previous incarnation."

Tring, who was bending over the fire, attending to a small copper kettle that had uttered angry, expostulating hisses, laughed. "I am going to make you tea," he said. "After how many hours of Disraeli Mansions? I feel that you require tea."

His tone jarred on her. It was slighting to those enchanted hours, she felt that, and all her enthusiasm and loyalty rose up in arms in defence of this new infatuation for not Frances Bertram alone, but for her husband and her house and all that was hers.

"I suppose it is hours—yes, I should love tea—but what a confirmed bachelor you are, do you always make it yourself? but I really lost count of them. Con, I wish you had been with me—no, that isn't true, I could not have talked as I did had any third person been present—woman to woman; you must know her * * * If you spoke to her quietly, face to face with her in her own house as I did, all your prejudice would melt away."

"Has Done Everything"

Tring handed her a cup of tea, smiled down into her eager eyes.

"Has it come to Christian names already?" he asked.

"Oh, one doesn't think of such women with a prefix," Clemency said impatiently. "Mary Godwin—Charlotte Corday or—or such women——"

"A revolutionary pair," Tring said. "But I am glad you enjoyed yourself. Mrs. Bertram is an excellent conversationalist, I'm sure of that—and her surroundings in keeping, slightly pre-Raphaelite, I should imagine." Then, seeing that Clemency's lips had settled into the hard line he had learned to know so well, he added hastily: "But did she help you? That is what really matters. Things have been hanging fire a little, and the man you married has proven to be what in truth he never pretended not to be, a poor inefficient mason, the wretch. Did she compensate you for this?"

"Helped! Oh, my dear! She has done everything. The house is all but built, Con, and not in Poplar. Here in Westminster, in this place of palaces and slums, of superabundance and of squalor! Our House of the Ever-Open Door—here almost at our own door!"

"That sounds quick work," he said a little dryly. "And why the change of venue?"

"Oh, there are heaps of reasons," Clemency said, glibly. "I fixed on Poplar at a venture—because, I suppose, the idea of the scheme came to me there. But chiefly, perhaps, because Mrs. Bertram told me of women's needs here in this neighborhood. She has prayed to be able to build such a house here. She knows a site—but the funds were not forthcoming. The meanness of the world! Thank heaven now for this miserable money of mine!"

"Mrs. Bertram knows a site, does she?" Tring said slowly. "Where?"

"Vauxhall Bridge road, in the very heart of the working world. Con, even the plans are ready—or practically so. It seems like a miracle!" She broke into an eager recital of the proposals Mrs. Bertram had laid before her.

"It must certainly seem so to Mrs. Bertram, if, as I expect, you have tacitly swallowed her site and plans whole," Tring said.

Full of Sympathy

"Why do you speak like that?" Clemency demanded. "Why did you pretend to an interest you did not feel; at least you might abstain from ridicule."

"My dear little Clemency," Tring rose and came over to her side. "I am full of sympathy with your aims and plans. But when it comes to her planning the Westminster site that has been a millstone round the neck of her unscrupulous father, and of thrusting on you the plans of her husband, the crank architect, I confess that I object strongly.

"The plans of such a building should be thrown open to public competition. I don't think Mrs. Bertram can have remembered that you were a married woman and had a male protector."

"Am I to understand that you are insinuating that Mrs. Bertram wished to swindle me?" Clemency asked.

"Oh, I wouldn't use so harsh a word," he said, smilingly.

"Thank you," Clemency said. Her voice gave Tring the first warning that he had offended her. "I feel sure that Mrs. Bertram would also be grateful. Of course I have no idea what grounds you may have for your detestable insinuation. I am sorry to disagree with you at the very outset—but I trust absolutely and unconditionally both Mr. and Mrs. Bertram."

Clemency, stung to the quick and showing anger in her eyes, rose and bade him "good night."

She undressed quickly, longing for the moment of prayer. But she had no words of prayer on her lips; if they had formed themselves there, she knew quite surely they would have been words of bitterness and rebellion. A passionate cry for power to redeem the past, to regain possession of yesterday, to be free again.

* * *

Beyond the chemist's shops huddled in its corner, Carter's row blossomed quite unexpectedly into three houses whose outer aspect was of unexpected gentility. Across the windows of one of them were short muslin curtains on bright brass rods. Next door was a less aristocratic residence. This was indisputably proved by the fact that its owner, A. Clegg by name, carried on in the basement his profession, that of cobbling shoes.

Took Mother's Name

In the house recommended by Father Armstrong to the landlord, who was one of his flock, Kitty Saxe two days ago had taken up her abode. She called herself Katherine Mayes, her mother's name, Kate Mayes for short.

To-day Kitty was lying face downward on the camp bed in her room racked by a nervous headache. From the room below came the sound of intermittent knocking and a man's whining, drunken voice.

All day long the sound had been going on. She felt that it must drive her mad. It seemed to bring up all the past before her—the dead John Saxe, weeks in continental hotels, irregular drinking bouts at Messula until that last fatal night in the forest clearing.

She sat up in the bed. It had got to the point beyond which endurance fails utterly. Finally the drunkard began to sing:

"Awide wiv me . . . fawst falls the evening toide . . ."

"Beast, beast, beast!" Kitty stamped her foot on the floor.

"The dawkness gathers . . . Lord wiv me awide."

A Beautiful Complexion for Every Woman

Nine out of every ten cases of bad complexion are due to ignorance or neglect. To neglect the skin is sure death to the finest complexion. The skin is composed of two layers—the outer layer or epidermis and the lower or true skin. The outer layer consists of little scales, laid one above the other, which works off from time to time. This layer is full of little holes called pores. These pores are the outlet of perspiration, oil and other waste matter which, mixed with dirt and dust, soon closes up the pores.

Look in your mirror, notice the little black spots on your nose, not reached by soap and water. They were not intended to catch the dirt and dust.

Every woman's toilet table should contain at least two creams. One to keep the pores open and one to protect them [illegible].

We have [illegible] two harmless, useful creams especially prepared for this purpose—Plexo Cleansing Cream and Plexo Greaseless Cream.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS AND ALL THE LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

READING CHIEF OPENING ISSUE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Most of the interest at the opening of the stock market to-day centred in Reading, which was in brisk demand, advancing a point upon vigorous buying.

Price changes in most of the other issues were narrow. United States Steel common, after opening ¼ higher, lost ⅛. There was some activity in the copper group. Amalgamated and American Smelters each gained ⅛. Talk of a merger soon continued among copper traders.

Among the other gains were Union Pacific, ½; Erie preferred, ½; Penna., ⅛; Lehigh Valley, B. & O. and Atchison were unchanged. Later B. & O. receded ⅝.

The curb opened irregular. Americans and Canadian Pacific in London were firm, but transactions were narrow.

State Street News

Under the caption, "JOYS VERSUS GLOOMS," to-day's News Bureau says: Copper at 12 cents and copper at 11 cents spells the difference—in Boston at least—between hopeless despair on the one hand and buoyant confidence on the other. But a few days ago the market place for Boston's copper shares was literally a deserted village; cobwebs were gathering on the tickers and the "glooms" were in full control. The "big men"—some big men at least—were howling calamity and prophesied 11-cent copper. Such an event of course could be but the forerunner of dividends passed, mining operations completely suspended and a complete prostration of the industry.

To-day, the "joys" are dancing in high glee. The prophets of disaster have either repudiated their direful predictions or have confessed that their diagnosis of conditions was falsely based.

An advance of just two cents in the price of copper has been the instrumentality which has worked out the transformation in sentiment, and during the past 24 hours there has been a demonstration of public interest in copper investments such as has not been witnessed for fully two years.

Some of the enthusiasm in Steel stock yesterday can be traced directly to the address made by Victor Morawetz. Mr. Morawetz is respected as an authority on corporation law and as a political economist. He helped to organize the Steel Trust, and now gives it as his opinion that the corporation does not violate the Sherman anti-trust law and was not intended to do any of the things forbidden by that law. This view is held by most persons who have studied the situation carefully and who are familiar with the methods of the trust. Intent is the essential part of a conspiracy, and it is generally believed that the Steel Trust can prove positively that the purpose of its organization was to save the steel business and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from a raid under the leadership of Andrew Carnegie.

The security market continues to act well. There is constant profit-taking, though this is absorbed in a wonderful manner. So far as the general public is concerned, the market still lacks breadth, but the public is beginning to sit up and take notice, and the brightest traders are working on the constructive side.

INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SOURNESS, GAS AND STOMACH-HEADACHE GO.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

Wines and Liquors.

The Old Story
In Xmas Liquors

"The chain of memory stretches far with the links that were and the links that are." Memory is inducing thousands of age-old customers to buy their Christmas liquors again this year of Thomas Snow & Son. And their ranks are swelling daily

It is the old, old story of "Quality"—which is the mightiest lever for permanent trade that has ever been used. The memory of Quality lingers long at Snow's Old Wine Store.

The first chapter of the story of Snow's Old Whiskey at 75c (or if you choose, at $1.00 and $1.25) a quart was written 100 years ago! And it is as interesting today as it was way back in 1812.

Milk Imperfectly Pasteurized Is Worse Than Raw Milk

It Deceives the Mothers and Poisons the Children

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal-Examiner

Thanks to the efforts of Nathan Straus, who has taught America and Europe the dangers of impure milk and the value of pasteurization, and who has saved the lives of many tens of thousands of children, even the average, ignorant man understands that impure milk causes death.

Even milk from the so-called "clean stable" contains tens of thousands of germs to the tablespoonful a short time after it has been taken from the cow.

Many of these germs are harmless, fortunately.

And, fortunately, also, in many cases when they are not harmless the constitution of the child is strong enough to fight against them.

Under the very best conditions the finest stables, where the cows are washed and groomed and the milkers carefully watched, fairly safe milk can be produced in the raw condition.

But once the bottle containing it has been opened it is not safe.

And if one of the milkers happens to have a child afflicted with scarlet fever or some other disease and does not know it or does not dare say anything about it for fear of losing his work, the finest milk in the world will spread that disease.

There is no absolute safety except in MILK PROPERLY PASTEURIZED.

The heat to which the milk is subjected in the pasteurizing process destroys the disease germs and protects the children.

Mothers using PROPERLY pasteurized milk, keeping the bottle ALWAYS closed when not in use, and using it within a reasonable time after the pasteurization, have a right to feel that they have done all that they can do to protect their children from the danger of milk infection.

Unfortunately, rascally dealers, eager only for profit and regardless of child life, trading upon the work that Nathan Straus has done, prepare and distribute milk subject to a system of pasteurization THAT IS WORSE THAN NONE.

This so-called "commercial pasteurization" is fraudulent, worthless, dangerous to the last degree, and it ought to be stopped by law and by public indignation.

Nathan Straus has just demonstrated in a communication addressed to the American Public Health Association the danger of this fraudulent "commercial" pasteurization. He supplies proof of the fact that the so-called commercially pasteurized milk sold in Washington had carried typhoid to the children that used it, twenty human beings among the customers of ONE MILKMAN being taken down with the disease.

Mr. Straus advises, and his advice should be instantly acted upon, that the American Public Health Association shall say exactly what satisfactory pasteurization IS. And also that the use of the word "pasteurized" shall be especially forbidden except when the pasteurization is real. And, furthermore, that all pasteurization be conducted under the supervision of the public health authorities.

In the same communication Mr. Straus shows, by supplying the facts in regard to an epidemic of disease in Boston which attacked over a thousand people and killed forty-eight, the great danger of raw milk given under so-called ideal conditions.

Mothers and fathers can obtain at low cost—practically at no cost at all—the necessary apparatus for pasteurizing milk. If they will take the trouble they can thus protect their children.

In any case, it is the duty of the Government to give the child the very small protection involved in following out the recommendations made by Nathan Straus in this matter.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

AGREES WITH MR. HEARST

Editor AMERICAN:

As a constant reader of your valuable paper, I wish to express my sincere thanks for the brilliant article, "Combination a Phase of Progress," by Mr. Hearst. I very much agree with Mr. Hearst that combinations are useful to society; that combination is necessary to the development of business, to the creation of wealth, and to the general prosperity, but, on the other hand, I am doubtful whether combination is of any benefit to the whole community.

Combination would be of great advantage to the public if the same would be controlled by independent government. By independent government I mean government which is not controlled by the so-called combinations. As you stated in a previous editorial, trust lawyers are transformed into judges and trust Senators receive their checks and instructions from trusts, etc. Therefore, I would suggest that the way to control this state of affairs is to purify the present system of government or else the people as a whole should do that which the trusts are doing at the present moment.

TURK PRAISES ITALY

Editor AMERICAN:

It has been a matter of great astonishment mingled with chagrin that the press of this country and public opinion should be so divided with regard to the justification of the seizure of Tripoli by Italy. Strangely enough, the balance of public opinion seems to be against Christian Italy and for Mohammedan Turkey.

Now, it would seem that all Italians would be for Italy and all Turks for Turkey. This, however, is not so. I, myself am a Turk—a Christian Turk, and many of my countrymen agree with me that Italy is fully justified in seizing Tripoli; and, furthermore, we hope that she will soon be successful in overcoming all opposition in that country so that the influence of Christianity and freedom may be established there for the lasting benefit of the people.

Personally, I go further than this. So far from thinking that Italy is actuated by selfish motives, I would say that she is divinely guided, and has been chosen the instrument for the further progress of Christianity within Mohammedan countries.

Now these statements in no way imply hatred or bitterness toward my native country. I am, first and last, a Turk—a Christian Turk—and believe in the ultimate prosperity of Turkey as a Christian country.

It is, therefore, because one believes that Tripoli will prosper better under a Christian and Italian rule, that many of us wish for the defeat of Turkey.

OPPOSES PARTY LABEL

Editor AMERICAN:

The attention of the next session of the Legislature will be directed to no inconsiderable extent to the question of primary elections. It is desirable that the attention of all the people be called to the question of declaration as embodied in our law by the so-called Luce act. Protest should be recorded against the principles as an invasion of personal liberty.

I deny the right of the State to label her enfranchised citizens by any party designation as a prerequisite to caucus participation or primary selection. Under the common law a governing body is estopped from use of label or brand except for felony and crime. Surely participation in primaries does not come under either head.

There Were No Such Photographs in the Day of Cardinal McCloskey

The most important, most interesting and most valuable photographs ever taken of a religious ceremony will appear in Sunday's AMERICAN. They can appear in no other newspa in New England.

These photographs—there will be four special pages of them-picture the elevation of Archbishop O'Connell to the cardinalat They were taken in Rome by the celebrated photographer Felic who alone is permitted to take photographs within the confines the Vatican.

In this country the firm of Underwood & Underwood enjoy exclusive rights to the Felici pictures. The Sunday AMERICAN by special arrangement with the house of Underwood & Underwood possesses these rights in New England.

The Sunday AMERICAN may be pardoned the expression of its great satisfaction in having the exclusive New England right to the use of these photographs of the consistory.

The Sunday AMERICAN is delighted to be able to give its readers this wonderful treat. The photographs will appeal to Catholic and Protestant alike. Each will find in them something to admire.

Never before, we are informed, have actual photographs been taken of such an occasion. The Sunday AMERICAN pictures possess an additional historical interest from the fact that there are no photographs in existence of the scenes attending the elevation of Cardinals McCloskey and Gibbons.

In one of the Sunday AMERICAN pictures Cardinal O'Connell is kneeling at the throne of Pope Pius the Tenth. The Holy Father is pronouncing the solemn words of consecration. The other photographs are almost as interesting. All of them are unique.

Please bear in mind that no other New England newspaper can publish these photographs. This great photo-historic treat is for readers of the Boston Sunday AMERICAN alone.

It is one more of the Boston Sunday AMERICAN'S great exclusives.

(Perhaps it is scarcely necessary to suggest the desirability of saying an early word to your newsdealer. If you ask him to-day to save you a copy of the Sunday AMERICAN you are less likely to be disappointed when Sunday comes.

Back to the Farm

By PERCY SHAW

HOW things have changed!
In our young days
The farmer won
Our stinted praise;
We scorned to reap
The burdened grain,
We saw with smiles
The country swain.
Those jaunts aloft
On scented hay,
'Ere trolley cars
Usurped the way;
Those husking bees
With her, you know,
Before the days
We city folk
In dirt and roar
Scorned joys like these
As on we tore;
"First give us gold,
With fashion next.
Farewell the farm,"
That was our text.
How things have changed!
The farmer's grain
Is busheled ere
It leaves the plain,
In autos come
His crops from field,
By science coaxed
To triple yield.
He revels in
His private car;
We wonder where
Our nickels are;
"First give us gold,
With fashion next.
Back to the farm,"
That's now our text.

He Writes About A Headless Turkey

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

PA brought hoam the funniest looking turkey last nite that I have ever saw. It was all broke up. The hed was gone & the legs was about two (2) feet long.

For hevings saik, sed Ma, whare did you git that bird?

Nevver mind whare I got that bird, sed Pa. I got it. The best proof, sed Pa, is that I have it here & have brought it hoam like the faithful husband I am.

Nevver mind, you say, sed Ma. Nevver mind the fack that you have brought hoam a turkey without a head & with its body stretched out so long & thin that it looks like a lath. I must insist on a explanashun, sed Ma, & I think I am going to have one, if there is such a thing as a wife evver gitting a explanashun from a husband.

Well, sed Pa, I will tell you. Pa was looking kind of red in the face, & he held the turkey beehind his back for a minnit, as if he had stole it. You see, wife, sed Pa, I got this turkey in a kind of peculiar way. I stole it.

You what? sed Ma.

I stole it, sed Pa. A crim-son flush mantels my cheeks sed Pa, wen I make this base confession, but I stole it. I stole it from Jimmy Lafbro. Jimmy won it shooting dice, sed Pa, & me & Joe Bannon took it away from him caver in Crowley's wen he was telling the cashier a sonnet which he had jest rote. A sonnet is fourteen lines, wife, sed Pa, & wen Jim got to the sixth line Joe had the turkey. We made our getaway during the last eight lines, Pa sed.

That doesn't explain, sed Ma, how the turkey calm to lose its head.

Well, sed Pa, the facks in the case are these: The turkey lost its head beckaus Joe Bannon lost his head. I matched Joe for the turkey, sed Pa, & wen I won Joe sed I lost. Joe had the turkey by the head at the time the argument beegan, sed Pa, & as I had a firm grasp on its feet sumthing had to give way, & owing to my brutal strength & the fack that legs is stronger than a neck, sed Pa, I calm hoam with the bacon.

Ma was looking at Pa kind of funny, the way she has looked at him a lot of times.

Do you want me to tell you sumthing? sed Ma.

I am always glad to hear words of advice from a woman as wise as you, sed Pa, & then Pa picked up the turkey from the floor ware it had dropped. It was the fourth time that Pa had picked it up.

Well, sed Ma, this is what I have to say. You doant need a turkey, you need a Turkish bath.
